SEEKING TIME FOR EFFORTS TO AVERT THREATENED CLASH

Great Britain Sees Good Chance of Success for Diplomatic Steps to Assure Mediation in Boundary Difficulties Between Italian Somaliland and Ethiopia—More Troops Embark

LONDON, May 16 (CP-Havas).—Great Britain, stirred by the rising threat of possible war between Italy and Ethiopia, moved tonight in what was seen as an earnest effort to gain time in which to avert a conflict.

The feeling here was that if time was gained, the delicate diplomatic steps required to assure mediation in the boundary difficulties between Italian Somaliland and Ethiopia would have a good chance of success.

WANT EXACT ACCOUNT

The urgent summons sent yesterday by the Foreign Office to Sir Eric Drummond, Ambassador at Rome, to come to London, was based on the desire of the Government to have a first-hand account of the exact attitude of Italy.

When the British Cabinet meets tomorrow it is believed Sir Eric will be called into conference with it to report on his conversations this week with Fulvio Suvich, Italian under-secretary of foreign affairs. Meanwhile Sir George Clerk, British Ambassador to France, has been in close touch with the Quai d'Orsay on the situation, and Sir John Simon, British Foreign Secretary, will convey his information to the Cabinet. Sir John also has been in touch with Charles Corbin, French Ambassador at London.

TROOPS LEAVE ITALY

ROME, May 16 (AP).—Four ships, carrying 3,500 men and a quantity of war materials, left Italian ports today for East Africa, as Italian newspapers devoted most of their front pages to threats of war with Ethiopia.

FORGE LINK IN TREATY CHAIN

Czechoslovakia and Soviet Union Conclude Treaty for Mutual Assistance

PRAHA, May 16 (CP-Havas).—A second link in what is hoped to be the chain of treaties to include eventually all Europe was forged here today with the conclusion by Czechoslovakia and the Soviet Union of a mutual assistance accord.

It is practically identical with the Franco-Soviet treaty signed in Paris two weeks ago.

The only point, indeed, in which it differs from the Franco-Soviet treaty is the inclusion of a provision in the attached protocol that, if either signer is the victim of an unprovoked aggression, France will come to its aid. Eduard Benes, Foreign Minister, signed the treaty for Czechoslovakia and Serge Alexandrovsky, Soviet Union Minister here, for his Government.

TO GIVE ADDED FORCE

Like the earlier treaty, it is intended to give added force to the Covenant of the League of Nations without supplanting any of the League Council's functions.

Articles of the treaty proper are exactly the same as those of the Franco-Soviet treaty, stipulating immediate consultation by the two parties should either be threatened with an aggression, combined efforts to bring immediate action by the League Council, and mutual aid if the League Council does not take immediate action.

TAKE PLANE FOR MORNING FISHING

Vancouver Newspaperman and Chicago Musician Have Good Sport in Mainland Lake

VANCOUVER, May 16 (CP).—The wily trout in mountain-forested haunts has been brought within the lure of the tantalizing fly of the busy city man who has forenoon to spare. The airplane has done it.

Roy Brown, editor of The Vancouver Province, and Anson Weeks, orchestra leader of Chicago, took off this morning in a Canadian Airways seaplane, piloted by Maurice McGregor, of Victoria, and flew over the Howe Sound mountains to a lake back of Sechart.

They got lots of trout, and were back in Vancouver by noon.

Over Two Tons of Dust in His Attic

DODGE CITY, Kas., May 16 (CP).—After recent rains had stopped the dust storm, Fred Bailey decided to clean the attic of his home today. With a suction pump he removed 4,300 pounds of dirt.

Their Majesties Inspect Site of Park

The King and Queen visited the site of the old Windsor brewery, which has just been demolished in order that it may become a garden of recreation. The ground has been given to Their Majesties by an anonymous donor as a Jubilee gift. Also seen are Sir Clive Wigram, Lady Minto and Canon Anthony Dean, chatting to the King.

Twenty Reported Slain in Battle of Constabulary And Alleged Communists

MANILA, P.I., May 17 (AP).—Twenty "Communist" bandits were slain in a battle with constabulary in Laguna Province today, a correspondent for the Spanish language newspaper La Vanguardia reported.

A constabulary detachment of twenty-two men has been pursuing alleged Communists since four persons were slain in an ambush near San Antonio, Laguna, Wednesday. The detachment was commanded by Capt. Angeles, who previously had commanded constabulary forces in the May 2 battle with Sakdalistas at Cabuyao, where sixty were killed.

QUEBEC VILLAGE NEARLY WIPED OUT BY FIRE

GLEN SUTTON, Que., May 16 (CP).—After battling flames for several hours, volunteer firemen succeeded today in quenching a fire that burned five houses and several barns.

High winds swept the flames from one building to another and for a time it was feared this Eastern Township village would be wiped out.

Province at Work On Forestry Camp Scheme for Youths

Ministries of Labor and Lands Co-operating to Work Out Details of Plan to Engage 300 Young Men in Woods This Season

PLANS to use up to 300 young men between the ages of twenty-one and twenty-five on forest fire protection work this summer were being studied yesterday by the Provincial Government, with inception of the scheme depending on funds expected to be made available later. Official announcement is expected shortly.

Actual preparation for launching the plan is being made under the Ministry of Labor, in association with the Department of Lands, which has the forest lands.

WOULD HELP RANGERS Referring to the subject yesterday, Hon. A. W. Gray, Minister of Lands, stated it was expected that some youths in groups of two and three would accompany forest fire protection officials in the woods, while others would help to cut fire trails to open up the bush, and assist in future protection work.

While details of the scheme are yet to be worked out, the suggestion has been made that the men be divided into regional areas with a number to be quartered on Vancouver Island, where some of the

PROMINENT MEN HAVE NARROW ESCAPE IN AIRPLANE ACCIDENT

Col. Victor Spencer, David Sloan, Purves Ritchie and Pilot Maurice McGregor Receive Wetting When Machine Overtaken in Vancouver Harbor After Striking Hidden Tow-Line

Captain of R.C.M.P. Launch Praised for Speedy Rescue

VANCOUVER, May 16 (CP).—Three prominent British Columbia mining men and a Canadian Airways pilot escaped with nothing worse than a scare and a bad wetting this evening when a chartered seaplane, "sitting down" after a flight from Victoria, fouled a submerged towing cable and overturned in Vancouver Harbor.

Two executives of Pioneer Gold Mines of British Columbia, Ltd., Colonel Victor Spencer, president, and David Sloan, managing director, and Purves E. Ritchie, managing director of Wayside Consolidated Gold Mines, Ltd., were returning to Vancouver after interviewing Provincial Government officials in connection with the strike of Bridge River miners when the accident occurred.

Neither they nor the pilot, Maurice McGregor, of Victoria, were injured, and all proceeded to their homes after being taken to shore on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police motor launch Imperator. M. J. Olson, commander of the Imperator, was highly praised by principals in the crash for his quick action in putting out from the Immigration Dock to their rescue.

The tug Nanook was setting out from Pier "A" with a railway barge loaded with freight cars as the seaplane alighted.

"The scow was behind the dock and could not be seen by the pilot," said Major D. R. MacLaren, manager of the dock.

PLANE ARRIVES AT VANCOUVER

Grant McConnachie Completes First Commercial Flight Across Rockies

VANCOUVER, May 16 (CP).—Snow and rain beset Grant McConnachie, young United Air Transports flyer, on the first commercial flight between Calgary and Vancouver today, but he brought his five passengers and plane through safely to land at Sea Island airport here at 6 o'clock tonight.

Taking off from Calgary at 9:30 a.m., he flew through sunshine, taking a bee-line course across the mountains for Kelowna, where he was to pick up four passengers. Eighty miles from Kelowna, however, he encountered a snowstorm. He climbed to 13,000 feet in an attempt to get over it, but failing to do so, headed for Grand Forks to get a weather report, landing there at noon.

TAKES OFF AGAIN He took off again at 3:25 p.m. and flew direct for Vancouver, flying at about 13,000 feet, and completing that part of the trip in two hours and twenty-five minutes. He flew through rain from Grand Forks, but otherwise the hop was uneventful. His average speed while flying for the whole trip was 100 miles an hour.

McConnachie plans to leave here on May 23 with twelve passengers for Calgary, with a stop at Grand Forks to land Mayor T. A. Love, one of the passengers.

PICKETING TO BE PROHIBITED

Edmonton Mayor Blames Reds for Relief Strike—Near Riot at Meeting

EDMONTON, May 16 (CP).—Only wild disorder and futile bickering resulted when the special relief committee of Edmonton City Council tonight met representatives of the three unemployed organizations in the current relief strike. At times the meeting threatened to develop into a riot.

Chafing under the order of Mayor J. A. Clarke to stop all picketing immediately, the unemployed representatives, especially the acknowledged Communist, showed resentment in impassioned outbursts.

DISPLAYS OF ANGER

At one stage, Mayor J. A. Clarke and Communist Delegate O. C. Doonan were both on their feet shaking their fists at each other. Mr. Doonan said if there were any cracked heads on the picket lines Friday, the blame would be on the Mayor.

"Don't go back to your hall after this meeting and direct ignorant people to go out on the picket lines tomorrow. They will land in jail," warned the Mayor.

He said that 75 per cent of those on relief wanted to work, but were afraid to because of the "strong arm methods" dictated by the Communists, who stayed safely behind the scenes.

More Awards Made By Adjudicators at Music Festival Here

Schubert Club Cup Retained by Victoria School of Expression—George Farmer Wins Executive's Trophy in Oratorio Class

WITH the conclusion yesterday of the grade school choirs' contests in the Victoria Musical Festival, interest, so far as the schools' participation in the festival is concerned, was transferred to folk-dancing competitions that begin at the Victoria High School today. The novelty of this morning's programme will be the competitions in organ playing, which will take place at 9 o'clock at the First United Church.

H. Farmer; the Knights of Pythias Challenge Shield, retained by the only entrant in Class 107, senior instrumental trio, John Pimm, Herbert Botten, Margaret Pringle; the

JUMP INTO SEA TO ESCAPE FIRE

Vancouver Man Receives Burns When Boat Breaks Into Flames After Explosion

VANCOUVER, May 16 (CP).—One man was burned and two others had a narrow escape from death tonight when their gas boat, the Odinnia, caught fire and exploded off Point Atkinson.

Harold Newell, of Vancouver; R. B. Spilbury, of North Vancouver, and another man whose name was not available tonight, were cruising in the boat when trouble was experienced with the engine. In attempting to restart the motor, Spilbury was burned when it backfired and burst into flames, which ignited his clothing. All three men jumped overboard before the flames reached the gas tank, which exploded.

The men were taken from the water by the crew of the tug Flier.

Withhold Result Of Strike Ballot

VANCOUVER, May 16 (CP).—Officials of the Vancouver and District Waterfront Workers' Association would give no indication tonight when they intended to announce the result of the ballot taken by longshoremen yesterday on the question of a walkout in sympathy with striking relief camp workers.

The men had decided that the result of the vote be made public at the discretion of the executive.

Important Awards Won by Visitors at Musical Festival

Oratorio Trophy Secured by Tacoma Singer—Quadra and Cloverdale Schools Capture Major Trophies in Afternoon Session

VISITORS had a gratifying day at the Musical Festival yesterday, no less than five of the first prize winners in the course of the morning and afternoon sessions being out-of-town competitors.

The most important of these awards was, of course, the Sir Charles Stanford Trophy, presented by the Victoria Municipal Chapter, I.O.E., for competition in the ladies' oratorio class. It was given to Mrs. Roy T. Brumbaugh, of Tacoma, who gained the very fine marking of 94, in a class of nine by her very fine singing of a recitative and aria from "Belshazzar." This performance was most highly praised by the adjudicator, George Dodds.

dition, clear enunciation of words, and good balance of tone.

In connection with the work of Quadra School in the contest for the George Jay Challenge Shield (Class 20), he again stressed the need of understanding the words or songs before a good interpretation could be hoped for. George Dyson's "The Seekers," the first test-piece, was, he said, one of his own favorite compositions for such purposes. Quadra School in their singing of this had a good steady opening, and maintained a jolly spirit throughout, with excellent contrasts and clear words. If George Jay School, which came second, had a nice body of tone.

ORATORIO CLASS

Adjudicating the ladies' oratorio class (Class 34), Mr. Dodds gave some splendidly constructive advice on the whole question of oratorio singing.

"Oratorio is one of the dialects of music. The classical period belongs, for the most part, to a period which finished with Brahms. Then we have our modern oratorio. The classical period consisted very largely of recitative, which told the story, and arias, which were in the nature of a commentary on the story told by the recitative."

Bach was inclined to give the narrative to the recitatives. It was necessary, if one wanted to sing oratorio well, to study the idiom. The language one would think of in connection with Handel or Purcell, although there was a similarity of period, and the idiom was not unlike. Again, coming forward to the time of Mendelssohn and Brahms, there was a different language.

TRADITION

The oratorio singer must also decide how far she intended to follow tradition, how far her own feeling. Good advice in this connection was to treat the matter just as one would treat Shakespeare. If Shakespeare were modernized too much, he would be put in modern dress, which, in Mr. Dodds's view, was not to the good. Handel and Bach were not improved by being modernized; the jewel and the setting did not match. Handel and Bach had no expression marks at all, and the line of melody had to be followed in the fluctuations of tone, using rules to a small extent to make the phrases tidy.

In the old classical oratorio, it was almost generally the rule to make a ritual. "If you take a recapitulation, you must not sing it the second time exactly like the first. Make some dynamic interest that will arrest your audience, otherwise it will have less effect the second time than the first. Apart from that, do not treat Handel and Bach as if they were Edgar," the adjudicator said. "Continuity, regularity and rhythm are absolutely essential. If you don't do this, your oratorio will sound either insincere or patchy."

PRIZES WON

Of the singing of Mrs. Roy Brumbaugh, of Tacoma, to whom he awarded the trophy for this oratorio class, Mr. Dodds was highly complimentary, and expressed his pleasure in hearing "the very welcome and little known" aria from "Belshazzar." The recitative alone was a daring choice.

"I think her architecture in the recitative was one of the best things I have ever heard since I came to Victoria, and several of the things she did were very well thought out. The aria was not so well treated as the recitative, although throughout she gave great pleasure with her voice, showing experience, good vocal work, and giving a finely finished and artistic performance."

Miss Sheila Conway and Miss Norah E. Jones tied for second place, two marks behind the winner. The former sang "With Verdure Clad," the latter, "Prepare Thyself, Zion." Miss Conway was congratulated on her nice phrasing and vocal efficiency, and Miss Jones on the good mood she created. He also liked her voice.

PIANOFORTE DUET

A very good lesson in the interpretation of Grieg's music was given by Arthur Benjamin in the course of his adjudication of the intermediate pianoforte duet class (Class 79) at the afternoon session at the First Baptist Church.

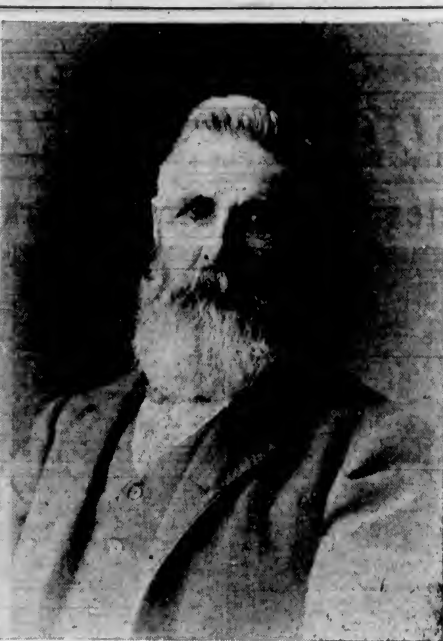

He first congratulated the competitors on "two surprisingly good readings, yet both possessing different good points," he noted. The test pieces were both by Grieg. "The greatest composer Norway has given to the world, a composer that has had a great influence on modern music." Although not on the same lines as either Beethoven or Brahms, Grieg was nevertheless great, and these two "Pieces Symphoniques" were among the finest things he had ever written. Mr. Benjamin had himself visited Grieg's house in Norway, and described something of the grandeur and ruggedness of the scenery which was reflected in so much of the composer's music. One must remember this in playing Grieg, who was essentially a "Nature" composer.

"BE MUSICIANS FIRST" If they are ladies and gentlemen as well, that is all to the good, but they must be musicians first. Mr. Benjamin remarked at one point, when trying to point to some of the competitors their fault of being "too lady-like." He asked some teacher to come to the platform to play the bass part of the duet while he illustrated some points in the interpretation, but none volunteered. Nevertheless, he played a few bars of the duet, very beautifully demonstrating the lovely melodic as well as dynamic qualities that it was possible to give by using a more singing tone and introducing more shade into the melody.

"Do not worship speed. It is the rhythm which gives energy," he also advised both competitors and teachers. The comment was made because the winners, Esther Kaufman and Dorothy Robinson, had taken the second of the selections much too fast. The ensemble of Thelma Meiss and Muriel Patterson was nearer than that of the winners, who, however, got more of the Grieg spirit into their work.

We'd like to hang on another ten years, or at least until the Dionne girls learn about money and collective bargaining.

Pythians' Grand Old Man

JOHN N. EVANS

Eighty-nine-year-old delegate to the Knights of Pythias convention in Victoria. He is a resident of the Cowichan Lake district, and has been a member of the Knights of Pythias for sixty years.

Claims Depression—Not Any Worse Than Others

John N. Evans, Eighty-Nine Years Old, Is Attending Session of Knights of Pythias Grand Lodge Here—Tells of Other Days

"Sure, this is a bad depression, but it is no worse than others in the past fifty years. I think we will come out all right soon," declared John N. Evans, eighty-nine-year-old "grand old man" of the K. of P. convention, yesterday, when interviewed at the convention hall.

"Conditions are poor generally, but up there at Cowichan, where I live, I'll say that there are fewer unemployed than in any other part of the province, with the possible exception of Alberni and Trail," said Mr. Evans.

Mr. Evans was born in Montgomeryshire, Wales, and reached Victoria seventy-one years ago. He recalled his first visit to the Strait of Juan de Fuca and his first day's work on roads where the railway crosses Craigflower Road.

He remained on the Island for a short time, but returned to California in 1874. On October 24 of that year, just ten years after the order had been founded in Washington, D.C., Mr. Evans became a member of the Knights of Pythias and has remained an active member of the organization since that time. During the entire sixty years he has been a member. Mr. Evans has held every office in the organization.

While at Cowichan, Mr. Evans was elected reeve for more years than any other public servant in British Columbia. During the administration of Sir Richard McBride, Mr. Evans represented Cowichan district in the Provincial Legislature.

Prior to his departure to California the second time, Mr. Evans, with the late W. C. Duncan, circulated the petition which resulted in the incorporation of Cowichan Municipality in 1873.

Last week Mr. Evans observed his eighty-ninth birthday with his wife at the home of his daughter and family. Mr. and Mrs. John Fleet, Maple Bay, He is in excellent health and took an active part in the debates in connection with the convention.

He has six children living, Mrs. J. W. Fleet, Maple Bay; Mrs. Peter Auchaniche and Mrs. G. H. Savage, Duncan; Miss Evans and Newel C. Evans, at home, and A. W. Evans, Victoria; twenty grandchildren and thirteen great-grandchildren.

Mr. Evans' "love" Victoria, but Cowichan is the garden of the Pacific Coast.

GOT DRUNK ON DUMPED LIQUOR

Young People Testify in Charges Brought Against Mounted Police

BATHURST, N.B., May 16 (CP).—Teen-aged youngsters trooped before a Royal Commission today and told of getting drunk on liquor dumped into Bathurst Harbor by Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Their testimony was given by Peter Venio's first submission in support of his misconduct charges against the redcoats, on the proving of which he has volunteered in the House of Commons to stake his seat as Gloucester County's representative.

Twice before, the former postmaster-general and one-time premier of New Brunswick had refused to bring witnesses before Chief Justice J. B. M. Baxter, sitting as a Federal commissioner at Fredericton, even though sworn denials were entered by the police he accused.

But today, with the commission in his home town, he produced fourteen Bathurst men, women and children in an effort to bear out his allegation that the Royal Canadian Mounted Police dumped seized liquor where it could be salvaged easily.

Two mothers and their two sons went before Chief Justice Baxter to tell how the sons had got drunk on liquor taken off the liquor-ship Saul T. Others told of punctured tires of alcohol being fished from the sea as they floated and drained of their dregs. Some got as many as three bottles of intoxicant this way, they testified; some found unbroken bottles in the shoreline dump.

Germany and Belgium Conducting Joint Drive Against Illegal Traffic

REICH TRYING TO END SMUGGLING

Germany and Belgium Conducting Joint Drive Against Illegal Traffic

BERLIN, May 16 (AP).—A joint campaign against smugglers over the German-Belgian border has been agreed upon by the two governments, it was learned today, following upon repeated reports of fatalities.

The convention was signed May 11 at Aachen, providing for mutual aid in suppressing the growing of illicit trade, which has come into the "gangster" class.

The German price level of about 50 per cent more than in neighboring countries has made the Reich a paradise for smugglers. Nearly 55,000 smugglers have gone to court in the last three years in Aachen, a town situated in the triangle formed by Belgium, Dutch and German lines.

Confiscated materials in Aachen district tell a significant story of smuggling. Since 1933, Aachen border guards seized 9,450,000 cigarettes, 184,000 kilograms of coffee, 49,800 kilograms of grain, 46,200 kilograms of flour, 41,000 of bread, 20,000 of tobacco, and large quantities of other goods.

Local Men to Read Papers at Meeting Of Royal Society

W. E. Harper and Dr. C. S. Beals on Way to Hamilton to Take Part in Sessions to Be Held Next Week

THE Royal Society of Canada meets this year in Hamilton May 21-24, inclusive. The meetings are usually held in Ottawa, but of late other cities have been selected, and last May it was held in Quebec City. The society is the major scientific and literary organization in the Dominion and embraces five main divisions, namely, (1) French history and literature, (2) English history and literature, (3) mathematical and physical sciences, (4) geology, (5) biological sciences. Section three is the largest, embracing mathematics, astronomy, physics and chemistry, and at present there are about sixty Fellows in this section.

TO PRESENT PAPERS
Two of the local fellows, members of the staff of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, are planning to attend the sessions to present papers by themselves and others. Dr. C. S. Beals left on the midnight boat Tuesday, and W. E. Harper, the acting-director, left last night.

On the way East, Dr. Beals will address the Astronomical Society centres at Edmonton and Winnipeg, where he will be joined by Mr. Harper, and they will make the remainder of the trip together. Mr. Harper will address the Hamilton Centre on the night of his arrival and will speak later in Toronto.

DR. BEALS SPEAKING
At the Royal Society, Dr. Beals will present three papers of his own: 1. "The Star P Cygni"; 2. "The Interstellar Lines, which are due to the presence in interstellar space of atoms of sodium and ionized calcium. While the sodium atoms are believed to be much less numerous than those of calcium, the intensities of the absorption lines of the two atoms have been known by Victorian observations to be about the same. Eddington, one of the foremost English astronomers, has recently advanced a theory to account for these intensities which depends on the assumption that the line shapes are a result of the effect of gaseous rotation.

The Victoria observations are in rather sharp disagreement with this view and suggest, rather, that the line shapes are due to random or peculiar motions of the atoms in the interstellar gas. The approximate equality of intensity of sodium and calcium lines remains unexplained.

Dr. Beals' third paper is a description of an instrument devised by him for automatically measuring the blackening on a photographic plate, at the same time recording the precise position on the plate at which the blackening occurs. A moving beam of light from a galvanometer makes a continuous tracing on a roll of sensitive paper, which slowly moves around a revolving drum. The blackening due to the stars is measured to an accuracy of 1 per cent, while distances on the plate are measured to an accuracy of 1-25000 inch.

NEW STAR
Dr. Beals will also present a short paper by Dr. R. M. Petrie, who has recently joined the staff. Before leaving the University of Michigan,

Dr. Petrie has secured observations of the new star in Hercules of a character to determine its temperature. In January and February, the temperature determined was 10,500 degrees absolute centigrade. In April the star rapidly diminished in brightness and has now become practically extinct.

Dr. J. A. Pearce has three papers which will be presented to the meeting by Mr. Harper. These describe his investigations on the masses and dimensions of three eclipsing variables. One system, number 216.014 in the Harvard Catalogue, consists of two giant stars of masses fourteen and twelve times the sun revolving in a circular orbit with a period of 1.77 days. The component stars have diameters of 5,000,000 miles, while the radius of the relative orbit is 16,000,000 miles.

Due to tidal action and their rapid rotation the stars are ellipsoidal in figure. They are rotating on their axis with a rotational speed of ninety-six miles per second, as compared with less than one mile per second for our sun. The light variations, due to their mutual eclipses have been studied at the Washburn Observatory, in Wisconsin.

DWARF STARS
The second binary star M.R. Cygni consists of two dwarf Class "B" stars of masses 3 and 2.6 times the sun revolving in a period of 1.68 days. The components are separated by a distance of 4,550,000 miles and the distance of the system is 1,000 light years.

American Flyers Set Seven World Marks for Speed

NEW YORK, May 17 (AP).—Two flyers and their transport plane completed a 3,106.84-mile non-stop flight in 12 hours 59 minutes today, winning for the United States seven world speed marks and setting nine new national marks for various "loads" and "distances." They continued on a 43.9-mile lap before landing.

The flyers, D. W. Tomlinson, former navy acrobatic flyer, and J. E. Bartles, landed after eighteen hours twenty-two minutes forty-nine seconds. They completed the last lap of the 5,000-kilometre record-smashing flight with an average speed of 207.3 miles an hour.

Mr. Harper has a paper of his own to present dealing with the re-examination of a few score orbits, which he had determined in earlier years. By reason of the interval elapsed since the earlier determination was made, slightly improved values are possible for the periods of some of these binary stars.

After the meetings Dr. Beals will visit his home in Nova Scotia before returning to Hamilton. He will stay over a few days in Toronto for the formal opening of the new David Dunlap Observatory, at which function he has been asked to say a few words.

Dr. Harper's absence, Dr. Pearce will be in charge. It is expected that Dr. McKellar, a new appointee, will arrive shortly.

REORGANIZE MINES STAFF

P. B. Freeland Is Moved to Victoria and John S. Stevenson Added

Changes in the technical staff of the British Columbia Mines Department were announced by Hon. G. S. Pearson yesterday, including one fresh appointment, two transfers and two salary increases.

P. B. Freeland, resident mining engineer at Penticton, is being transferred to Victoria in an advisory capacity. A. M. Richmond, resident mining engineer at Vancouver, will be transferred to Penticton. John S. Stevenson, formerly of Long Lac, Ontario, and a native of New Westminster, is appointed assistant resident mining engineer here.

In making the announcement, Mr. Pearson said that Freeland has been in the service since 1917, would be employed in Victoria, particularly in connection with checking statements made by mining companies seeking investment.

TO INTERIOR
Mr. Richmond moves to Penticton from the Coxy area, where he has been assistant resident mining engineer, and will have charge of Mineral Survey Districts Nos. 3 and 4, centred around Penticton and Kamloops in the Lower Central Interior of the province.

Mr. Stevenson takes Mr. Richmond's place at Victoria, as assistant resident mining engineer, working in association with Dr. J. F. Walker, provincial mineralogist.

DOCTOR OF PHILOSOPHY
Mr. Stevenson, it was said, holds the degree of B.A. and B.Sc. from the University of British Columbia, and was connected formerly as a geologist with the Long Lac Gold Mines, of Ontario. He took a post-graduate course at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, receiving the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. He will start at $3,000 per annum, less civil service deductions.

Says, "Headaches Gone"

MRS. A. J. SCHWARTZ
So you can be sure her experience is true, Mrs. Schwartz, 485 Samuelson St., Galt, Ont., tells in an affidavit made before a lawyer, how Fruit-a-tives stopped her headaches. "Backaches and headaches bothered me for a long time. I did not seem to get better at all until I used Fruit-a-tives. Then my headaches and backaches came less and less until in a few weeks they had disappeared entirely. In fact Fruit-a-tives made me feel like a new woman altogether."

SAYS INCOME TAX MUST BE ELIMINATED

Capt. W. C. C. Innes Declares Reduced Levies Would Help Nation

URGES UNIFICATION OF ALL RAILROADS
"Canadians are probably the most highly taxed people of any nation and although the Dominion's population is some 10,000,000 persons, the tax burden falls upon less than one-third of us." Increased taxation to balance budgets cannot go on indefinitely, says Capt. Innes, who has now reached the danger point.

These statements were made by Captain W. C. C. Innes, chairman of the Commercial Bureau of Canada, Inc., in addressing members of the Victoria Rotary Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday.

"The Federal Income Tax Act, born in 1917 under the War Measures Act, has not been repealed because governments in the past have not had the courage to do so," Capt. Innes declared. "Masses of our people who do not pay income tax are under the misguided opinion that it is a method of bleeding the capitalist class. Had the government of the day earmarked revenue from income tax for a reduction of our war debt, an extremely different interpretation might be placed upon it."

FINE ADVERTISEMENT
"We in Canada require to be in a position to attract world capital, and I, personally, cannot conceive of a finer advertisement for this country than to be able to advertise the fact that we have no income tax. It would undoubtedly mean the investment of world capital and the right type of citizens who always follow their capital," the speaker asserted.

"A Canadian industry has to pay a corporation income tax of 13-1/2 per cent. Not content with that, the individual who is in receipt of dividends from that corporation has to include them in his personal income tax, which may be anywhere from 4 to 65 per cent," Capt. Innes stated.

"Income tax in a young and growing country is a dangerous and vicious system. It penalizes initiative and kills ambition. Today the average businessman is staggering under a load of taxation that, if allowed to increase or continue, will eventually kill the goose that laid the golden egg. If certain definite national reforms are brought about, we can afford to abolish the Federal Income Tax and we can bring all taxation down to a decent level in this country. We are facing a financial crisis today. Taxation has reached a dangerous point. Business is so surrounded with rules and regulations, control and legislation, that most businessmen have come to the conclusion that they are in business to serve the government," Capt. Innes claimed.

COSTLY RAILWAY
"How long can we afford to have the Canadian National Railway cost taxpayers around $90,000,000 a year?" the speaker asked. "National railways have added $2,782,000,000 to the debt of the Dominion of Canada. The system in the last sixteen years of public ownership has failed by $528,000,000 to meet the interest on its debt due the private investor, exclusive of interest due to the Government on unpaid loans," he disclosed.

"Duplication of railway transportation in Canada is absurd and when consideration is given to the fact that at the best, there is only a limited amount of traffic, both passenger and freight for our railways, the folly of duplication is apparent. The solution lies in unification of the present two railway systems under management of the privately owned railway, at least for a given number of years. There would be no monopoly because the board of railway commissioners controls and sets all passenger and freight rates."

Capt. Innes claimed that solving the railway problem would save Canadian taxpayers $90,000,000 a year. Even during the peak of prosperity in 1928, he said the national railways failed by $29,000,000 to meet their indebtedness to the public.

Turning to the question of over-Government, the speaker stated Dominion, Provincial and municipal governments cost taxpayers $900,000,000 each year.

TOO MUCH GOVERNMENT
"These are startling figures. Surely all will agree that the cost of government is outrageous, even ludicrous," he remarked. "We do not need nine Provincial Governments in addition to our Dominion Government and Senate. We could consolidate the Prairie Provinces under once government and save $80,000,000 a year."

"We are faced with ten parliaments meeting annually and putting on the statute books more legislation, rules, regulations and control of business, and today the average businessman finds himself so surrounded with rules and regulations and excessive taxation that he is virtually working for the Government. I challenge governments to keep out of business, for it is not their function to enter it. Nations are built by individual citizens, not by governments," Capt. Innes charged.

"He makes me tired," said one. "He thinks he's so all-fired important."

"Well, he is," retorted the other. "He's a pretty big man around town."

"Yeah!" flipped his friend. "The hippopotamus is the biggest animal on the 500—and what does that get him?"

THE POST OFFICE WINS

Human nature is so constituted that it is peculiarly susceptible to mass attack in the matter of follies and games. The cross-word puzzle had its heated devotees; the craze flamed up and died away. It is so through the ages, and nothing ever at any time appears more to the sporting element than is secreted in so many hearts than the possibility of making money by some little exercise of ingenuity rather than through toil. The less that form of exercise the more fascination it has, as witness the case of sweepstake tickets. Their appeal continues unabated. They are not in the category of several other money-making crazes that spring up from time to time, but the case of the dime and dollar chain letters now the pastime of so many of the people on this continent is somewhat similar. No game of its character, with the end in view of making money easily, has ever obtained a wider clientele. It may be well to examine its incidence and implications.

Each person who writes a chain letter, on the basis of the humble dime, believes implicitly that he or she has the chance of receiving a total of $1,562.50 in times after starting the chain. What those engaged in the game do not figure out is that it will cost them $1,876 to keep the chain unbroken. A mathematician says that people "falling for the scheme are confident that they will receive 15,625 times from that number of persons." So they will, he says, if different names appear on all lists; "but," he asks, "where are the 15,625 persons who send dimes to me going to get that number of dimes from others? They will have to come from 244,240,625 persons, more men, women and children than live on the North American Continent. If every person in North America had $1,562.50 in dimes, plus $313.50 to buy two-cent stamps to keep the dimes circulating, the scheme could operate forever. Each person would finally get $1,562.50, but each would have spent an additional $313.50 for stamps, as well as forwarding 15,625 dimes—or $1,876 to get it—a dead loss of $313.50."

ST. JOSEPH'S TAG DAY

The history of St. Joseph's Hospital is coeval with the growth of Victoria; it is the history of a local institution that has accumulated a record of service that is a matter of pride to our citizens. Established in the early days of the city's development it has proceeded from strength to strength in its purpose of catering to the sick, and there is now no hospital in the country which enjoys a higher reputation for the good it has done and the character of its conduct.

St. Joseph's, like all hospitals, especially in these latter years, has had to struggle hard to meet expenses, because there are always some of the sick who enjoy its benefits who are unable to pay for the care exercised on their behalf. To make up the deficiency thereby incurred, ways and means have to be devised for raising money. One of these is through the medium of a tag day, and tomorrow St. Joseph's is appealing to the public to aid it in carrying on its humanitarian work. That appeal will undoubtedly meet with a response from all those who have experienced, or who in other way know of the character of the healing work undertaken for so long by St. Joseph's. The Sisters, the staff of nurses and probationers, the medical faculty, all engaged in the work of the hospital, and the Women's Auxiliary responsible for tomorrow's tag day, have brought the spirit of co-operation well nigh to perfection, and the results are what have established a reputation second to none. There is, indeed, in the conduct of the hospital a tutelary genius inspired by the spirit of service. The public need no reminder of the place which St. Joseph's occupies. The fact that it gives its name to a tag day is indication of a public need, and the strong sense of civic pride in the record of St. Joseph's is the assurance that the response to tomorrow's appeal will be hearty and spontaneous.

THE LEVELLERS

Technocrats, Townsdenians, Inflationists, denouncers of interest, Socialists, Bolshevists, social creditors and a few other monetary and social reformers are having their hectic day and their voluble say. With few exceptions they are levelers and their mental history has been a series of brainstorms and a condition of envy and resentment towards those who, through the gifts of nature or through hard effort and achievement, have risen in the last degree above the average level.

The mentality of the revolutionary radical varies but little from one age to another. It may sometimes be dimly lighted up by a kind of altruism, a sentimental humanitarianism like that of Comte, who about one hundred years ago devised an odd religion in which "humanity" was the object of ceremonial worship. More frequently, however, there glows in the mind of the leveler a dull flame of resentment against all who possess capabilities which are beyond his reach. By a very natural sequence, resentment leads him presently to disparage his betters, traduce their characters, and depreciate their performances. At first, it is true, a man may secretly admire high qualities in the lives of others, but when he comes to realize that he himself is hopelessly deficient there arises in him a feeling of impotence which in turn gives place to some kind of revenge, and these extremely unpleasant emotional elements act as a poison within him. He thus begins with resentment and disparagement, and as a result of thus falsifying the true values of things he becomes convinced in his own mind that the grapes are really sour. This is bad enough, but worse follows when he goes on to the stage of believing that sweetness is after all a defect wherever it exists. When they are conscious of their own defects and have no native means of supplying them, too many citizens blind themselves to the existence of any good qualities which they cannot measure up to and take their revenge in denunciation and denial.

Their conclusion is that nothing remains for them but to look for a new standard of value. Having denied the whole order of objective value the malcontents set up an arbitrary standard, subjective and personal. Thereafter, any phase of life or culture which shows a distinction of its level will become to them an object of dislike and disparagement. The resentment of the under-endowed individual towards his intellectual or moral superiors leads him to embrace the so-called "humanitarian" theory according to which everybody is to count as one and only a theory that substitutes quantitative for qualitative criteria, and sets up routine obedience rather than achievement as the measure of reward. Thus men try to average themselves upon the good they cannot reach, by dragging it down to their own level, the level of their own perverted judgments of value.

TO LETTER-WRITERS

At the head of the column entitled "Letters to the Editor" in this newspaper it is stated that no letter should exceed 500 words. This is a request that is too often ignored, and many correspondents are disappointed when their letters do not appear. Exceptions to this rule are made on rare occasions when, in the opinion of the newspaper, the subject matter dealt with appears of sufficient public interest. In the main, however, few letters of over 500 words in length appear, and it is often the case that correspondents grow irascible on this account.

The object of referring to this matter, which has been mentioned so often in these columns, is to emphasize anew the desirability of all letter-writers restricting their contributions to the desired length. In doing so disappointment will be obviated and the correspondence column will contain more diversified views and be proportionately more interesting. If too many exceptions are made to the rule regarding the length of letters there are many correspondents who think that they are being discriminated against. There is no such intention. We would ask all our readers who are in the habit of writing letters to the paper to condense what they have to say, and to realize, moreover, that when a thing has been said once nothing much is gained by having it repeated over and over again.

WORDS

My thoughts are lifted wings that lightly sway,
Fragile as petals that the chance winds claim;
My thoughts, like slender semitars of flame
Are swift, are sure and unafraid as they.
Waking me on to seek in beauty's name,
Driving me on to seek in beauty's name,
My thoughts are strangely quiet pools that frame
Still pictures where the changing shadows play.
My words are halting, passionless and cold;
As aliens, they neither know nor share
The singing wonders that my thoughts can hold;
From out the written page they mock and stare.
My stumbling words are colorless and slow,
They cannot follow where my swift thoughts go.
—Alice Leigh, in Poetry World.

A NEW BEGINNING

I know how hard it is to begin again and meet life cheerfully and hopefully, when you are shorn of that which gave life its bloom and glory; to begin again and throw out new tendrils from the heart, and climb again toward the sun. But this must be done.

—Robert Collyer.

What does the word "cheerfulness" imply? It means a contented spirit; it means a pure heart; it means a kind and loving disposition; it means humility and charity; it means a generous appreciation of others and a modest opinion of self.

—W. M. Thackeray.

Measure your mind's height by the shade it casts.

—Browning.

Note and Comment

C. R. D.

Annals: The best-laid schemes of mice and men often go awry.

Men, my brothers, men the planners, ever planning something new! Many of the nations are suggesting new plans, and many of the nations are trying new plans, for many and various purposes. Send somebody a dime and gather in hundreds, perhaps thousands, of dollars. But those plans will fail if human nature is what it always has been, weak and prone to yield to temptation. From their very nature plans are apt to become rackets. The strength of any chain is determined by its weakest link.

National plans are, of course, cast from larger moulds than individual plans. President Roosevelt, wisely advised by his brain trust of learned professors, adopted a national plan which has developed into an international plan for relief of the depression in the United States. Some say the national plan has failed; others that it has been at least a partial success and will be a complete success if its life is extended over a further period of two years. We do not know very much about that, but are told that the Blue Eagle is a plucked bird and no credit to its tribe. The United States Senate seems to endorse this view, because it has refused to sustain the N.R.A. plan for more than a few more months.

Readers of the newspapers must have learned something about such subjects as tariffs and quotas and other experiments for the regulation of trade and commerce. They must have read a great deal about the effects of tariffs upon international economics and that the trade of the world never can be what it used to be unless all international tariffs be abolished or scaled down to reasonable proportions. Theoretical economists tell us that the nations can never be prosperous until they adopt either free trade or flexible tariffs. A flexible tariff is something that can be raised or lowered and adjusted to current circumstances.

Not so many economists have had much to say about flexible currencies as higher barriers to international trade than fixed or flexible tariffs. Secretary Morgenthau of the United States Treasury, has been telling the world something about the effects and purposes of a flexible currency. When the value of the dollar was reduced about forty per cent, that process of devaluation demonstrated the flexibility of United States currency. The original avowed purpose of the N.R.A. or the New Deal, was to inflate the prices of the products of the farms and factories of the United States within the domestic market. That purpose has been accomplished to a considerable extent; but at the same time the artificially inflated prices affected adversely the export trade of the country. So the solution of one problem raised another problem. An attempt is being made to solve that problem by deflating the currency. The dollar has been made cheaper according to the rules of exchange. More dollars can be bought by foreign currencies. The value of products exported is not determined by prices at the point of production, but by the value of the deflated dollar.

Secretary Morgenthau frankly tells the world that the dollar will not be stabilized even at its present deflated value. He goes farther even than that. He declares that if circumstances demand it, the dollar may again be devalued. He states that if there is to be currency stabilization, the statesmen or financiers of other nations must lead the way to that haven of monetary refuge. The United States dollar is now practically in the same class as the once displaced Mexican dollar and may be introduced to the company of the Japanese yen. Thus the truth has been established that currencies may become quite as vital instruments in the rise and fall of international trade as tariffs. Japan's plan, if it was planned, not just happened, appears to have been adopted by some of the other nations. And thus the world is faced by another problem.

All the nations of the world have their own special plans. Great Britain's pet plan appears to be to keep peace in Europe. France's plan is to keep Germany in her present place. Germany's plan is unsettled. It varies according to the mood for the moment of Herr Hitler, and may not be definitely revealed until a more convenient season. In one speech the dictator professes to be a man of peace, but in the next he may say Germany will never be content until she has regained all her ravished possessions and a conspicuous place under the sun. The only potentate in the wide world who appears to be quite sure of himself and the strength of his position in Europe and Africa

BRITISH-ISRAELISM

Sir,—In response to Mr. A. M. Green's letter in this morning's Colonist on the subject of British-Israelism, I commend him for coming out so openly and fairly with his objection to the British-Israel viewpoint regarding the said throne and the dynasty. He fires his shot in full belief that he is shattering the British-Israel claims, but his premise reveals his dilemma—he has a difficulty, yet seemingly feels quite sure of his position. In conclusion, he asks his British-Israel friends to "deal with this point." Speaking for the Middle East, we shall be glad to do so at our meeting in the Campbell Building on Monday, May 20, and most cordially offer him every opportunity to present his case. This is what British-Israelites themselves request, open and free discussion of difficult points. E. E. RICHARDS, 1139 Burrard Avenue, May 15, 1935, Victoria, B.C.

WATER RATES

Sir,—I see that the "school board" will ask the council for lower water rates. Why? I quite appreciate that it looks unfair and is silly to charge the school board full rate and other civic institutions half rate, but why waste the time of the trustees, aldermen and officials quarrelling over what is merely a bookkeeping entry? If the school board had to raise the money, it would be different, but all that actually happens is that the totals at the foot of the civic accounts look that much bigger. It makes no difference to the taxpayer whether the debit in the corresponding credit in the waterworks account is $3,000 or $300,000 or thirty cents. But it will make a difference if matters of real consequence are delayed or dealt with too hastily because the value time has been wasted over a purely academic dispute.

Whatever time our aldermen can give to water rates should be spent in figuring out a method of amending the rates so as to encourage the small householder to help beautify the city instead of penalizing him for keeping his front lawn. Under the present scale, the man who keeps his lawn in good order during the tourist season has to pay out $25 or $30 a year for water, but the man whose property is an eyesore and detriment to the city escapes with $15 or $16. And the extra $10 or $15 that the good citizen is penalized for isn't any more bookkeeping entry!

P. R. LEIGHTON, 521 Fort Street, Victoria, B.C., May 15, 1935.

Boathouse Is Gone

Yesterday afternoon the old ramshackle Caureway boathouse was towed away, leaving only the floating home of Henry Peachey, who has lived on the spot twenty-five years. A new boathouse is to be erected.

Blue Ribbon Club.—The meeting of the Blue Ribbon Club at their hall last night was a most successful one. The choir singing "Bringing in the Sheaves," after which Rev. Mr. Barnes offered prayer. Max Wells recited, "We Bared Life Together." John Smith played on the piano, solo on the piano, after which Rev. ## CHAIN FANTASY LOSING APPEAL

Letter Craze Is Fast Dying
Out After Hectic Ten-Day Run

Victoria citizens paused yesterday in the mad race of dimes and dollars that promised to lead to fortunes via the chain-letter route, to take stock of the situation and many found it not to their liking. They had reached the end of the rainbow, and instead of the pot of gold they found more and more letters that called for further outlays. The end of the boom was in sight.

What apparently put the skids under the fast-hatching letter incubator was the rumor that "rackets" were operating in the downtown area and were taking all the profits and leaving legitimate operators out in the cold. It was the fly in the milk pot and it circulated sufficiently fast to send the chain stock to a new low for the ten-day period.

RELATED RETURNS

Belated returns to some of the more fortunate filtered in with the afternoon mail, but the takings were light and personal contact letters were from assets in the hands of big time operators as the circulating system broke down and refused to function. The craze had become a general nuisance, in the opinion of hundreds who tried to wriggle out of the maze of mail that brought fresh demands from fresh groups. The demands were greater than the supply of dollars and dimes.

With the petering out of the money grab, some turned to other forms of chain devices. One chain, it was reported, demanded a can of beer, but stopped when it came into the hands of an ardent prohibitionist.

list. The get-acquainted "boy and girl" chain was also mentioned as going the rounds. The scheme was to have the party at the top of the list to "date" the sender. Picture shows have not reported any increase in attendance.

AN AMUSING ONE

One amusing letter was received yesterday by a businessman. It had the following instructions: "Within three minutes take a gun and shoot the guy whose name appears at the top of the list and then shoot yourself." The instructions were not carried out.

Yesterday's indications were that the city and its citizens would be back to their normal state of mind by the week-end, and the beginning of a new week should see business moving along the usual channels. The chain-letter craze has had a good run in Victoria, and it is estimated thousands of dollars changed hands. No one apparently suffered ill effects, but many had their tempers ruffled. The craze is practically over, and unless some other form of amusement is devised the scheme will go down into the pages of history as just another economic fantasy—with bells on.

DISTINGUISHED SOLDIER HERE

Lieut.-General Sir William Marshall Led Huge Force In Mesopotamia

In charge of quarter of a million British troops in Mesopotamia in the closing years of the war, Lieut.-General Sir William Marshall, K.C.M.G., K.C.B., with Lady Marshall, passed through Victoria last evening as passengers on the inbound R.M.S. Niagara, docking from New Zealand.

CATHERINE CRAIG, MAT CLARKE, HELEN OCKENDEN, EVELYN HILL. Who, with Bertha Drob, Duncan Sweet Pea Queen, will attend the May Queen, Lillian Grant, in Victoria Day celebrations here. The queen and princesses will ride in three old-fashioned carriages.

Sir William, who is honorary colonel of the Brandon Rangers, said he was looking forward to retracing his trip through Canada, taken last year.

The Brandon Rangers and the Sherwood Foresters are Canadian military units affiliated with Sir William's regiment, the Sherwood Foresters, who gave yeoman service during the late war.

On their present visit, Sir William and Lady Marshall will cross Canada with stops at Brandon and Montreal, before taking passage for England. Retired, and free from duties now, the noted Mesopotamia commander stated he was looking forward to his Canadian tour. The voyage from Australia, he said, had been pleasant and without major incident.

INSURANCE FOR RIDERS MOOTED

Saanich May Cover Relief Men Carried To and From Work in Municipality

Saanich may insure all relief men riding to and from work on municipal trucks, it was intimated at the municipal council session last night. Cost of this proposal will be investigated by municipal authorities.

It was pointed out to the council that the Workmen's Compensation Act does not apply if any accident occurs prior to or after working hours. If an accident did occur, it was felt the municipality would be entirely responsible.

It was stated that present insurance on municipal trucks allows three passengers and a driver. More than that automatically cancels the insurance contract, reports said.

FORBID WOODYARDS
Establishment of woodyards in that portion of Saanich lying in the District of Victoria was forbidden unless council permission was secured, in a by-law introduced last night. A penalty of from $10 to $50 will be assessed offenders.

A grant of $50 to the Lake Hill Community Centre, to be used to partially finance a Saanich float in the May 24 parade, was authorized. The council purchased $1,000 worth of Saanich waterworks, 5 1/2 per cent bonds, due 1944 at $99.50, plus accrued interest.

Congratulations to Reeve William Crouch and Miss K. Oldfield on receiving Silver Jubilee Medals were extended by the council. Councillor W. R. Woods, Ward Four, paid tribute to Reeve Crouch's work in the municipality, while the reeve himself was high in praise of the work done by Miss Oldfield along charitable lines.

VICTORIA IN RAIN RESEMBLES ENGLAND

Even with the rain, Victoria and its environs greatly remind them of England and are thus very pleasing to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Edwards, of London, remarked yesterday at the Empress Hotel. They said they were delighted with the country and would probably spend several weeks here before crossing the Pacific Ocean to visit the Orient.

After an extended visit in Japan and China, Mr. and Mrs. Edwards will return to Victoria for a few days before going East across Canada en route home. The visitors arrived here yesterday from Seattle. They left England several weeks ago and went to New York, then through the Panama Canal to San Francisco and later to Seattle.

COMMITTEES NAMED BY YOUNG LIBERALS

The regular monthly meeting of the Twentieth Century Liberal Club, of South Saanich, was held in the club's new hall on Douglas Street last night, with P. E. Alexander, president, in the chair. The principal business was the selection of chairmen for the various committees, which resulted as follows: Athletics, Edward Vigors; social, Miss K. Sheridan; and membership, W. Williams.

It was decided to send a delegation to the meeting of the South Saanich Softball League tonight to enter a team in the league. Plans were discussed for the dance to be held on May 30 in St. Mark's Hall.

CONFIDENCE COMES BACK

People of Australia Spending Freely—Victoria Balances Its Budget

"Restoration of confidence is the main reason for the advanced prosperity which Australia is now enjoying," Sir Stanley Argyle, former Premier of Victoria, told newspapermen aboard the liner R.M.S. Niagara on her arrival here last night from Australia and New Zealand.

"People who were pinching their pounds, shillings and pence remaining in their pockets are now spending freely. I cannot state that this prosperity will be permanent, or even guess how long it will last, but people generally are feeling that it has come back to stay."

"While this applies to Australia generally, I am speaking more for the State of Victoria. We were in a bad way there a few years ago, but we tackled the situation in a manner which has proved the wisdom of the policy adopted. We cut down our expenditures, which was not at all popular at the time, but in three years while the Argyle Government was in existence, the expenditures were cut $5,000,000."

COALITION GOVERNMENT

Sir Stanley stated that he was the Leader of the Opposition in the Victoria Legislature at the present time. The present administration under Premier A. Dunstan, a Country Party man, is a coalition Government, and it is carrying on splendidly. Although budgeting for a deficit, things have improved so steadily it is generally expected that the budget will be balanced at least, and probably show a surplus.

Sir Stanley declined to discuss Federal Australian politics. He is going to London to represent the State of Victoria at the Parliamentary Conference to be convened in London next month, he stated. He is accompanied by Lady Argyle. They will return to Australia by way of Suez.

Heavy Programme Faces Parliament

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP).—Parliament will resume on Monday, and already rumors of morning sittings in order to deal speedily with the programme of legislation are heard. Consideration is being given by the Cabinet to draft bills implementing recommendations of the parliamentary committee on price spreads and mass buying. The session programme came up for further discussion at a meeting of the Cabinet today, presided over by Sir George Perley.

FINED DEATH ACCIDENTAL

Jury Told Captain H. L. Leverin Driving Forty Miles an Hour

Accidental death was the verdict of a coroner's jury that yesterday inquired into the death Tuesday night of Capt. H. L. Leverin, twenty-nine-year-old officer in the Royal Canadian Engineers at Work Point Barracks.

Testimony showed the officer died almost instantly from injuries received when the automobile he was driving skidded on wet pavement and crashed into a telephone pole at the intersection of Johnson Street extension and Catherine Street.

ESTIMATES SPEED
John T. Ware told the court he saw a roadster being driven east along Johnson Street extension shortly after 10 p.m. Tuesday and judged its rate of speed at forty miles an hour. He said he first noticed the car crossing the E. & N. Railway tracks on Esquimalt Road. Shortly after he heard the screech of brakes, followed by a loud crash. Later he saw the roadster piled up against a telephone pole.

Mr. Ware ran to the scene and then stopped a passing automobile. William Pauline, driver of the car, attempted to extricate Captain Leverin from the wreckage.
Dr. William Boyd and J. R. Roy testified they had been with Captain Leverin at his home on Esquimalt Road a few minutes before the accident. They said they had seen him drive away in his car and had followed shortly afterwards.

Piles Go Quick

Under Dr. Leenhart's Internal Method
Large numbers of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protruding piles have learned that quick and lasting relief can be obtained by the use of an internal medicine, when salve and ointment help and wish is to escape operation. Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts inflame. To end piles an internal medicine should be used to stimulate the circulation and help to heal the affected parts. Dr. Leenhart was one of the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID and presented it for large numbers of patients with a fine record of success and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist, with money-back if not joyfully satisfied with the help one bottle gives. So isn't it true when other ways fail to go to MacFarlane and Vancouver Drug Stores who will matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money-back. (Adv.)

Macdonald, who passed away at his home, 76 Moss Street, on Tuesday. Rev. G. G. Boothroyd, assisted by Rev. E. F. Church, conducted the impressive service. The Masonic service at the graveside was conducted by the Wor. Master of Victoria Columbia Lodge No. 1, A.F. & A.M. The hymns sung were "Nearer, My God, to Thee" and "Abide With Me." The following were pallbearers: W. Bracken, T. Percy Waters, W. E. Niblock, W. M. Walker, A. C. McGregor, Bro. G. H. Akhurst and Bro. John V. Johnson. The remains were at rest in the Royal Oak Burial Park.

Alan Gardiner conducting the service. The remains will be conveyed by Haywards B.C. Funeral Chapel tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Military Cemetery, Esquimalt.

CAR COMPLETE WRECK

Dr. Boyd explained he examined the body while it was still crushed in the car wreckage and found no trace of life. Glass from the windshield of the wrecked auto was thrown sixty-nine feet, according to Constable Thomas Bannister. He said it was raining and visibility was fair. From the extensive damage to the car, which was reduced to a complete wreck, Constable Bannister said he concluded the machine had been driven into the pole with great force.

The Late Thomas Golby

(Contributed)

Of Thomas Golby it may be said that kindness and courtesy were his outstanding characteristics. He was always ready to lend a helping hand and to interest himself in others. In the quiet and unobtrusive manner habitual to him, he exerted an influence for good which we, his friends, know have been unequalled. In him the youth of Victoria have lost one who always pointed the way to manliness, good sportsmanship and unswerving honor.

An outdoor man and lover of nature, he had spent much of his life in Texas, where he was the first to discover and develop the rich quicksilver deposits of that state, and in the wild border country he stood for fair play and straight dealing.

In him we have lost a gracious gentleman of the old school and can ill spare him, for his life and work are a lesson to us all. But his influence will remain with those whose privilege it was to know him as one "without fear and without reproach."

Banquet Brings Season Of Club Work to Close

Cup for Decorated Table Won by Versatile Club of Y.W.C.A.—Reports of Year's Activities Are Read by Officers of Group

About sixty members of the Versatile Club, the Pirates Club and the Business Girls' Gymnasium Class of the Y.W.C.A. held their annual dinner last evening in the Y.W.C.A. dining-room, a number of guests, including the board of directors and the girls' work committee, also attending.

Each of the three groups had decorated a table in a competition for which the silver cup, presented by the board of directors, was won by the Versatile Club. The judges were Mrs. Walter Walker, Mrs. Walter Fletcher and Mrs. P. A. Gibbs.

The Business Girls' Gymnasium Class, headed by Miss Barbara Hinton, the instructors, had arranged their table with a cleverly constructed centerpiece which represented a moss-banked lake on which floated boats and water lilies, while close by was a sandy beach on which tiny figures sported themselves, a log cabin and trees in the background.

The Pirates Club's table was decorated with a treasure chest filled with gold coins, which were scattered about on the table. Each plate was marked by a "pirate" made of candies, and the table napkins had "pirate" decorations. Miss Minnie Lawson is the leader of this club.

The program opened with grace said by Miss Fawcett, followed by a welcome to the guests by Miss "Pat" Kirchin, president of the Girls' Club Council, who was in the chair, Miss Blackley, the general secretary of the Y.W.C.A., introduced the guests, and Mrs. Roy Angus, as president, brought greetings from the board of directors. Mrs. Richard Pelton, convenor of the girls' work committee, brought greetings from that group, and Mrs. Hammond said a few words of greeting from the old friends. She also led the singing, and two solos were sung by Mrs. Keir, the accompaniments by Mrs. Hammond.

A delightful talk on "New Zealand" by Mrs. Jardine was much appreciated by the guests and club members, and the speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks, expressed by Miss Edith Bolton.

Miss Phyllis Linton, secretary of the Girls' Council, read a report of the year's activities. The report of the Versatile Club included sewing for the V.O.N., lectures on health and home relations, socials and games. The Pirates Club had been active, and in addition to social affairs, games and dancing classes, the members had made sweaters for distribution by the Friendly Help. Lectures on home relations and health had been given, and three addresses had been given during the year.

The National Anthem was played by Miss Verna Holt.

METROPOLITAN

The Metropolitan United Young People's Society entertained the parents of members on Monday evening in a "parent night." The room was arranged to represent a living-room, and as the mothers entered they were presented with corsage bouquets. Hazel McPhee conducted a singing of old, well-known songs, and Rev. J. H. A. Warr sang "Mother MacPhee" and was accompanied by Miss Genevieve Knapp. Catherine Craig gave two amusing readings, "The Obstructive Hat" and "A Telephone Conversation." Molly Lally sang the solo, "Daddy," accompanied by Catherine Craig.

The president, Herbert Simpson, welcomed the parents and spoke for a few minutes on the work of the society. He then presented Mr. Warr with a desk lamp in appreciation of his four years with the society. A radio play, "The Jewels of Cornelia," by Marcus Bach, was broadcast for the guests. The cast included Tom Wilson, Harold Price, Florence Gillis, Jack Vail, Hazel Carter, Iola Carter and Maude Land. Benny Duckworth played during the intermission of the scenes, and Mrs. Hammond said a few words of greeting from the old friends. She also led the singing, and two solos were sung by Mrs. Keir, the accompaniments by Mrs. Hammond.

A delightful talk on "New Zealand" by Mrs. Jardine was much appreciated by the guests and club members, and the speaker was accorded a hearty vote of thanks, expressed by Miss Edith Bolton.

Miss Phyllis Linton, secretary of the Girls' Council, read a report of the year's activities. The report of the Versatile Club included sewing for the V.O.N., lectures on health and home relations, socials and games. The Pirates Club had been active, and in addition to social affairs, games and dancing classes, the members had made sweaters for distribution by the Friendly Help. Lectures on home relations and health had been given, and three addresses had been given during the year.

A Beautiful Dinner Table

The beautifully decorated table which the Empress Hotel arranged for exhibition in connection with the display in the hotel ballroom on Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club. The general color scheme of this table was pale green, the flowers, which were schizanthus, introducing lovely pastel shades.

gave a trumpet solo, accompanied by Mrs. Gough, and Miss Ivy Bories sang two solos. Mr. Neil Perry introduced the guest speaker, Dr. H. M. Cassidy, director of social welfare for British Columbia. His talk was enjoyed by all, and a vote of thanks was extended to him by Rev. Dr. W. G. Wilson. Kenneth Simpson, thanked the refreshment committee, headed by Miss Helen Marsh, for its work in preparing the supper. The C.G.I.T. acted as waiters. Dr. Wilson brought the evening to a close with the Benediction.

Bayliss. Through the efforts of Mr. Gelling, the Bible Class and A.Y.P.A. have planned to form the St. Mary's Tennis Club to play at Stadcona Park. Details will be announced later. Next week there will be a social.

JUNIOR LEAGUES

Hold Convention In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16 (AP).—Should a woman be excluded from a paying job because her name is listed in the Social Register?

The Junior Leagues of America, in annual convention here, answered indirectly in the negative. Their leaders say no action which would place a woman on members who are working in salaried posts is contemplated.

"Sometimes a woman of former wealth has obligations to relatives no one knows anything about; sometimes she may be working to keep up necessary appearances; her salary may be the only means of continuing jobs of domestic servants; there may be other reasons," said Mrs. Robert Dingman, league secretary.

But the league has indicated a very probable move to dictate to members about not allowing social prestige of the organization to be exploited in commercial advertising.

CLUBS-SOCIETIES

Fairfield W.M.S.

A meeting of the Fairfield United Church W.M.S. was held yesterday at the home of Mrs. G. Piercy, Linden Avenue. Mrs. E. E. Dowlé led the devotion. The Watch Tower had three representatives: Mrs. E. G. Place read an account of the year's work in Manchuria, where her brother, Rev. A. R. Ross, and his wife are working in connection with the Canadian United Church. Mrs. C. A. Fields gave an account of the famine conditions in West Africa, where gifts from Canada had helped in relief. Mrs. G. Piercy spoke of mission work in the hospital near Canton, South China, where a former pupil of the Oriental Home in Victoria, Miss Agnes Chan, is in charge of thirty-six nurses of the home training school, in which a high standard of nursing has been maintained.

Mr. Alfred Dowell read an account of a chapter of the study book, "Builders of the Indian Church." Miss Mabel Bangler sang a solo, which had been composed for Mother's Day by one of the W.M.S. members. Mrs. G. Green, president, presided. Mrs. C. A. Fields brought to the attention of the members the financial side of the work of the society. Mrs. F. L. Jackson reported calls paid; Mrs. Dowell spoke of the mission band and Mrs. J. H. Campbell read a letter from the Presbyterian literary secretary. Discussion of plans for increasing membership and interest followed. Tea was served later.

Hostels for Ex-Service Men Mooted

OTTAWA, May 16 (CP).—Provincial chapters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire have given varied opinions in regard to establishment of hostels for ex-service men, by the Dominion Government.

This was brought out today when Mrs. R. H. Brotherhood, convenor of the service and ex-service men's committee, submitted her report to the national chapter of the I.O.D.E. in thirty-fifth annual session here.

Alberta and Ontario strongly endorsed the project; Nova Scotia thought hostels were not necessary in that province, while British Columbia Mrs. Macdonald decided nothing practicable could be done this year.

MEET PRESSING NEEDS

Chapters had gone forward to meet the pressing needs, the continued demands and opportunities for greater service among the men and their families, so many in distress and utterly discouraged, but not forgotten by our order," said Mrs. Brotherhood.

Approximately $77,000 had been expended by chapters throughout the Dominion on child and family welfare. Mrs. J. E. Ruby of Smith's Falls, Ont., reported. In all provinces, chapters had engaged in relief work and in supplying milk to undernourished children.

CLINICS SUPPORTED

Glasses were supported, either fully or partially. Patients in hospitals, sanitariums and preventorium had been remembered and money donated to the upkeep of these institutions. Splendid results were reported from the Summer camps for underprivileged. Aid has been given the blind and the deaf, and financial assistance advanced for operations and the supplying of glasses. Assistance had been given to Victorian Order work, district nurses and children's aid societies.

In this work, Ontario chapters received $38,125; Quebec, $10,255; British Columbia, $7,284; Nova Scotia, $6,172; Alberta, $5,100; Saskatchewan, $4,750; New Brunswick, $3,957; and Manitoba, $1,066.

Reports were given from Empire work in India, Girl Guides, distinguished visitors and hospitalities.

Women's Help Sought By Conservative Party

Mr. R. A. Wootton Addresses Local Branch of Association in Campbell Building—Explains Acts of Parliament in Informative Talk

Mr. R. A. Wootton, speaking before the Women's Conservative Club in the rooms, Campbell Building, last evening, touched upon organization and the policy of the British Columbia Conservative Association in planning for the forthcoming election, complimenting the women's organization upon its excellent record as an intellectual force in the work of the Conservative party.

In drawing attention to the work done by women in the affairs of nations, the speaker outlined in brief some of the major changes in various constitutions of nations which owed their accomplishment to women. Florence Nightingale had done far more than to establish women's place in the nursing world, as she had awakened the public mind to comprehend the much wider fields of activity in which women could find expression and exercise their influence for good.

Without a doubt this all added towards the subsequent emancipation of women.

The problems to today, in view of the emancipation of women, were therefore not alone for men to solve, but with her equal influence as a voter, the woman of Canada is as vitally concerned as the man.

REFORMS NECESSARY

Mr. R. A. Wootton had indicated to the people of Canada that to some extent reforms were necessary.

"THE CHILD"

REVEALING QUESTIONS

Very frequently we do not listen to our children's questions. We put them off. Mother says, "I am too busy now. Wait till I get this cake out of the oven." Or father, "Sorry, old man, I've got to make the golf links by two." The child loses because he has not had the opportunity of learning from your more mature wisdom and experience, which is his right. We also lose. If we will but consider and appreciate the child, we shall find that we, too, may learn much from him.

From five-year-old George we have: Why do you look so worried, Mummy? If you know God loves you? A very apt question inasmuch as Mummy probably did not know why she looked so worried and did not fully comprehend the love of God which was hers for even "half an eye" to the spiritual side of her life.

"God does love us being funny, doesn't He, Mummy?" Certainly He does. Smiles and laughter should be much more a part of our devotion than pained and gloomy expressions.

The opportunity that parents have if they will take the trouble to answer the child's questions honestly and directly is well illustrated in the question the child put to his mother of Lot's wife: "Does God still turn people into pillars of salt?" The mother answered, "No." Then, thinking that she might rob God of some of His omnipotence, added, "But He could if He wanted to."

To what good account she might have turned this story by showing the child that God always turns into inanimate things those who look back in repining on loss and adversity and who refuse to face the future and the unknown with courage and confidence.

Cathedral Guild Has Guest Tea

The Silver Jubilee guest tea, held yesterday afternoon in the gymnasium of the Memorial Hall by the Women's Parish Guild of Christ Church Cathedral, netted approximately $66.

It was a particularly delightful affair and the rooms looked most gay and attractive with flags suspended from the balconies and all the tables decorated in a color scheme of red, white and blue, with tulips, narcissi and bluebells predominating.

The visitors were welcomed upon their arrival by Very Rev. C. S. Quainton, Dean of Columbia, and Mrs. George Mills, president of the guild.

A musical programme gave great pleasure during the tea hour, when the pupils of Miss Dorothy Cox appeared in a number of graceful dances; Master Earl Morris sang vocal solos, and Master Douglas Grant recited. All the performers were given enthusiastic applause.

Musical Festival Notes

A feature of tonight's Musical Festival programme at the First United Church will be an organ number by Dr. Gordon Slater, the distinguished British visitor, who is here adjudicating the choral classes at the festival. Dr. Slater will play at 8.30 o'clock and has chosen the Bach Prelude and Fugue in D Major. Owing to the number of competitive classes scheduled to take place on the same programme, there will not be time for him to play more than this one number.

Dr. Slater is organist and master of the chorists at Lincoln Cathedral, England, and also conductor of the Lincoln Musical Society and the Lincoln Orchestral Society. For three years (1927-30) he occupied the position of organist of Leicester Cathedral, at that time being lecturer in music both at Leicester University College and Vaughan College. He founded and conducted the Leicester Bach Choir. He is a composer of note of choral songs, vocal solos, piano and church music.

Festival patrons should note that the finals of the operatic class for women's voices will take place in the afternoon today and not, as stated in the syllabus, tonight. Another alteration is announced: The winner of the girls' choir contest (Class 23) will not sing on this evening's programme.

Class 70 (junior pianoforte championship) has been postponed to 9 a.m. tomorrow at the First Baptist Church, Arthur Benjamin adjudicator.

Arthur Benjamin, adjudicator of the instrumental classes at the festival, will meet and address the pianoforte teachers of the city in the First Baptist Church tomorrow morning, immediately following the adjudication of the piano junior championship class. A teachers' are cordially invited to be present. Reginald Cox, president of the Victoria Music Teachers' Association will take the chair.

Tonight's programme will begin at 7.30 o'clock, with Class 112, junior string ensemble, competing for the Kola-Levin Cup.

The Hoopsburg Herald, U.S.A., has been sued for slander by Mr. Tip Getta, driver of the garbage wagon in that village, because the paper published a society item to the effect that his daughter was engaged to the son of the banker there. ## MORE AWARDS MADE AT MUSICAL FESTIVAL man's leadership, and the Metropolitan United Choir Challenge Cup, held by the First United Choir Quartette, in competition against three other choirs.

The other feature of the programme was the interesting pianoforte solo class test, three contestants playing the magnificent Beethoven "Waldstein Sonata."

There was no award in connection with this.

The Victoria School of Expression has won the trophy in the private school choir competition for the fifth successive year in taking the Schubert Club Cup.

SCHOLARSHIPS GIVEN
Two scholarships were awarded during the evening. W. H. Muncy, on behalf of the Musical Festival Association, awarded the Dominion Academy of Music scholarship to Edie Friend, winner of the highest marks in pianoforte solo classes, for entrants between the ages of sixteen and nineteen. The scholarship entitles the winner to one year's free tuition.

To Barbara Draper he presented the Royal Business School scholarship, winner of highest marks in elocution, in classes open to girls between sixteen and nineteen. This gives two months' free tuition in the school's business course.

ADJUDICATIONS
The advantages of ensemble singing such as called for in Class 28 quartette contest, were pointed out by the adjudicator, George Dodds, in the preamble to his adjudication of this class. Singers were not usually good musicians, and ensemble singing was one way to develop their musicianship. It also developed a spirit of unselfishness, and that was one of the most necessary things in art. It taught control of tone, and direct observation of musical technique.

"I am all for quartette work, and I would urge young people to combine in this way if for no other thing than the pleasure they will get from it even if they never sing in public," he urged.

The winning quartette, composed of Mrs. W. H. Wilson, Miss Edie Friend, J. Maurice Thomas and James Loudoun, sang "Come to Me, Gentle Sleep." This, the adjudicator said, had extremely good team work and nice harmonic texture.

ORATORIO CLASS
There was very little preamble to the adjudication of the men's oratorio class. Mr. Dodds saying that he had fairly well exhausted what he could say, in a limited time, during the adjudication of the same contest for women's voices in the afternoon. He commended the winner, George Farmer, for his "delightfully flexible voice," which, while it had not much power, was used with facility in the runs while the oratorio style was good, the rhythm fine, and the work on the "hole, capital." A brave and difficult choice," he said, commenting on the winning selection, the aria "Why Does the God of Israel Sleep," with its recitative, "My Grief for This."

What Mr. Dodds had said about the advantages of ensemble singing, Arthur Benjamin practically repeated in his comments on ensemble instrumental work when adjudicating Class 107 (instrumental trios). He did much praise for elegance and delicacy with which this was done; "a charming little performance, excellent chamber music playing," he supplemented.

The Victoria Male Choir had no competition in Class 5, but gave two spirited performances in singing Armstrong Gibbs' "A Sea Song" and Boughton's "Little Billie," winning the high marking of 87 for the first and 86 for the second. "Very good work, both in tone and quality; humor and characterization done in splendid form; a magnificent rendering," Mr. Dodds said in his summing up.

HISTORIC WORK
Probably the most ambitious and severest test, in the pianoforte division of the festival, was heard last night when three non-competitive entrants played the first movement of Beethoven's historic "Waldstein," a colossal piece of musical architecture, which tests not only a player's technique, but interpretative ability.

Arthur Benjamin adjudicated this class, in which were entered Estlin Kaufman, of Puyallup, Wash.; Helen Winn and John Glenn Nelson, of Vancouver.

"We have just listened to three persons play one of the greatest monumental works of all literature written for the piano," the adjudicator said in his opening remarks. He said he did not propose to go into individual criticism, but would endeavor to give the message of Beethoven as contained in the "Waldstein." The sonata, he said, was written in Beethoven's middle period. He was greatly indebted to his masters, and those who had gone before him, such as Haydn and Mozart.

Mr. Benjamin then briefly described the simple sonata form as it was known at that period, with its first and second subjects, the episodes, or bridges, joining them; the small coda, then the full development, next the recapitulation, and finally the lengthy coda.

BROKE SHACKLES
It was at this period of his life that Beethoven began to feel he was hampered, so he broke the shackles and liberated the sonata form from all its restrictions. He knew no law and, like a great architect, went on and on.

"The playing tone did not seem strong enough to me in the three performances we had. There was not the spirit of the giant Beethoven stirring himself up. The touch was too light. This piece is Beethoven feeling like some and impatient. In the second subject there is a serenity that lasts for about sixteen bars, which the pianist failed to realize to the fullest extent. After this serenity, the composer again surges ahead," Mr. Benjamin continued. "I heard some beautiful, facile technique, but it was not the technique needed for Beethoven. The giant of music does not want dainty, light playing," he asserted.

He advised against using the repeat in this lengthy sonata. He also criticized, generally, the players for tailoring to realize the climax of the piece. Some aspects of the composition were entirely ignored. There were no sudden, surging crescendos, followed with sudden pianissimos. Had the pianists realized his they would have given a better emotional contrast, he stated.

Mr. Benjamin then picked out on the piano, the one-note theme that formed the basis of this great work. "You see it is quite ordinary, but Beethoven did something with it. His inspirational treatment of it was magical. It made the theme a great composition."

RESTLESS SPIRIT
The semi-quaver passages were treated as just light, dainty finger passages, whereas they should have been played as surging waves, increasing in size to the climax. The opening, he said, should be softly pulsating, mysterious and impatient. The semi-quavers needed shaping and a note of anxiety instilled as the pianist works up to the climax. In all these comments, Mr. Benjamin illustrated his points by interpreting them on the piano. His chief criticism was that the performers did not play the sonata in an unhappy, restless mood.

Dr. Gordon Slater adjudicated Class 26, junior choirs from private schools, competing for the Schubert Club Cup, which was retained by

VERBAL ACCENTUATION
The pieces for this test were: "Tell Me Where Is Fancy Bred," by Dunhill, and "Five Eyes," by Gibbs. In his general remarks, the adjudicator said of the first piece, "In settings of words by Shakespeare the words need more careful stress than words by any other person. Shakespeare's words always seem to reduce the music, unless it be really first rate, to a secondary position. The stressing of the words by both choirs left much to be desired. Try and get the verbal accentuation before the musical accentuations," he advised.

Of the winning choir he said it had good tone and nice phrase shaping. There also was some beautifully accomplished modulation by this choir, which had excellent gradation in the first piece. Discussing the second number, Dr. Slater said the words must be kept absolutely on the tip of the tongue. There has to be a tense atmosphere. The choir might have contrasted the descent a little more by lightening the higher voices and emphasizing the staccato passage taken by the lower voices. "This choir gave us quite a good picture, and was quite imaginative."

Prior to the festival classes being adjudicated, the Victoria Male Choir, under the leadership of Frank Tupperman, gave a splendid programme of choral numbers, which were greatly appreciated.

GENEROUSITY PROVES TO BE LAW BREACH

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 16 (CP).—Generosity can constitute a law violation, the Gehl Dairy Company learned today. The company received a suspended sentence for selling cream that was too rich. The light cream was found to test 20 per cent butterfat, while the law limited it to 19 per cent. The court suspended sentence.

DUKE'S APPLICATION FOR BAIL REFUSED

LONDON, May 16 (AP).—Hopes of the Duke of Manchester, sentenced to nine months imprisonment last week for fraud in pawn-jewelry of his family, of leaving his gloomy jail cell, were dashed today when a justice refused his application for bail. He is planning an appeal from the sentence.

OPPOSITION VAIN

Despite Bakdal opposition, the constitution was ratified by a vote of 1,157,992 to 39,800.

Violence again broke out on May 15, however, ending in the deaths of the acting mayor of San Antonio, the acting chief of police, the municipal vice-president and a policeman, who were shot from ambush.

Immediately thereafter the constitutional set out in pursuit of the slayers, variously described as "Communists" and "brigands." Today's battle was believed to be a direct result of that pursuit.

That Body of Yours

(By James W. Barton, M.D.)

PREVENTING OVERWEIGHT AND SLEGGISH MENTALITY AFTER REMOVAL OF THYROID GLAND

Notwithstanding that heart disease stands first as a cause of death, the number of individuals with heart disease who are now able to live for many years is most encouraging to physicians. This is accomplished by "resting the heart and thus not using all its 'reserve'."

However, there are some cases where even rest is not sufficient and the heart still continues to work too fast. As the pulse of the thyroid gland in the neck speeds up the heart just as a draft does the burning of coal in a furnace, the removal of this gland has been done in a number of heart cases. Some time ago only a portion of the gland was removed, but lately surgeons are removing the whole gland.

It so happens, however, that in some of these cases the removal of the gland, while quieting or slowing down the heart rate, also slows down the other processes, so that the individual may grow fat in body

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton Often Consulted Regarding Best Place to Live

General Sir Ian Hamilton, who for four years has held the post of inspector-general of overseas forces, is a great advocate of Vancouver Island's charm, and is doing much to advertise this part of the Empire.

During the occupancy of his post, Sir Ian has visited every part of the Empire, except India, and as a consequence is often consulted by retiring military officers as to the best place to retire and make their homes, according to a letter received by Alderman Dr. J. D. Hunter from the general.

In answer to these queries, Sir Ian invariably replies either Vancouver Island or the north island of New Zealand.

Why Buster Bear at Last Gave Up

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

Such a racket as there was when Buster in the Green Forest, where Buster Bear was walking round and round the tall tree in the top of which Prickly Porky the Porcupine had found refuge. Blacky the Crow had called every relative within hearing and that crowd of crows was making noise enough to drive anyone crazy. Sammy Jay was adding his voice, and you know Sammy's voice is harsh and loud when he is excited. Of course everybody within hearing knew that something interesting and exciting was going on in that particular place and hurried over to see what it all meant.

Chatterer the Red Squirrel was one of the first to arrive, and at once became quite as excited as the others. Then one by one other little people crept up and hid where they could watch. Granny and

Now all the little people in the Green Forest were looking at Buster Bear. Chatterer the Red Squirrel took care to keep out of Buster Bear's sight. Chatterer, knowing that Buster Bear couldn't catch him in the tree-top, was bold and saucy, as he always is. He jumped from tree to tree, all the time calling Buster Bear names and being as impudent as only a red squirrel can be. Buster didn't get so much as a glimpse of any of the other fur-coated folk, but he knew well enough they were there and that they were laughing at him. This didn't make him feel any better.

On the contrary, it angered him. But there wasn't anything he could do about it, so he just kept on walking round and round, stopping to look up every now and then at Prickly Porky and growling.

By and by the noise that the crows and Sammy Jay and Chatterer were making began to make him nervous. It popped into his head that there might be a hunter with a terrible gun somewhere in the Green Forest, and were there so he would be sure to come over to find out what all the excitement was about. Buster began to grow anxious. Little by little common sense began to exert itself. It suddenly struck him how foolish he had been in threatening to stay there until Prickly Porky had to come down. He remembered what he should have remembered in the first place, that Prickly Porky could get enough to eat right up where

ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

CHAPTER XI

We all went down, but I sank clear of the unseen men and rose again to the surface behind me, and began shouting, evidently to others on the opposite bank. I swam swiftly for the foot of my cliff, emerged, and ran panting and dripping up the cliff.

The shouting below came clearly to my ears, also the splashing. I judged that the two men had thrown their arms over the top-landed canoe, and thus, hands clasped, were making out to keep afloat.

Drying my bruised feet and dripping skin on my blanket, I hastened to dress and strap on my pack. When I was prepared, the sun was already scattering the mist and I made out the canoe floating bottom up, close inshore, and I heard the creaked men paddling with their hands.

Presently Walter Butler's voice sounded from the bank, asking the swimming men the cause of their upsetting.

They replied that a deer, swimming the river, had planted one foot in their bow while they slept, and so overturned the canoe. But I knew that Walter Butler would not be long in discovering the tracks of my naked feet in the shore sands where I had landed; so I prepared to leave without further ado.

With a stomach stayed with a mouthful of corn and water, I started silently toward, meaning to make a circle and recross the river to take advantage of their sure pursuit by traveling on the Port Pitt trail until again hunted into the forest.

It was useless to attempt to cover my tracks, for I could neither avoid breaking branches in the tangle, nor keep from leaving footprints on the soft moss. But I crept close to the tops of fallen logs like a part-ridge, and use every watercourse that wound my way. And this I did to check the pursuit which I knew must begin sooner or later.

It began even sooner than I expected. Resting a moment to scrutinize a broad stretch of barren ground around which I had just circled, I saw a man creeping among the rocks and berry-scrub, doubtless nosing about for my trail. A moment later another man moved on the eastern edge of the mountain flank, and at the same time, far up the river, I saw the canoe floating.

That was enough for me, and I started on a dog trot down the slope and along the river bed till I came to a bend from which the naked shoulder of the mountain could not be seen.

Thayendanegea had taught me to do what people thought I should be likely to do, but to accomplish it so craftily that they would presently think I had done something else.

When at length those who pursued me should find my trail, they would have no difficulty in following me down the long incline to the river where I now stood, ankle-deep in icy water. I had halted exactly opposite to the mouth of a rocky stream, and it was natural that I should ford the rapids here and continue, on the other bank, up that stream to hide my trail. They would expect me to do it; so this I did, and ran to the bend in the stream for a few rods, carelessly leaving a tiny dust line of corn meal on the rocks, as though in my headlong flight my sack had started a seam.

Then I turned around and waded down the brook again to the river, out to the shallow rapids, and so, knee-deep, hastening southward again.

But scarcely half an hour had passed ere that accursed canoe appeared bobbing down the rapids, paddles flashing in the sun; and I took to the forest once more at a lively gallop.

But I now changed moccasins for a brand-new pair of larger size, and reversed them, toe pointing to the rear. Every twenty paces, then, I stooped to brush up the pile of the velvet moss and so obliterate my tracks for the next twenty paces.

In this manner I traveled for three hours without sign of pursuit. Then my galled shoulder creaked for mercy, under my pack, and I struggled out once more into the Port Pitt trail and stood panting and alert, drenched with sweat.

The trail had been trodden within the hour: I saw fresh signs of two different mammals, and of a coarse boot of foreign style, all pointing southward. The moccasins were like one pair I had in my pack, they, I thought, I had changed my moccasins for the third time, and ran on, stepping carefully in the tracks of him who wore the Albany moccasins.

I had run nearly half a mile when a turn in the trail brought me out along the river. I scanned the stream thoroughly, but I could not see the opposite bank plainly because the forest rose from the water's edge, and low-arched branches screened the shore. Under these a canoe might lie, or might not.

It was clear I could not remain in the Port Pitt trail with at least two of the Butler crew behind me. Should I take to the tangled forest again? My shoulders begged me not to. Of course, I knew full well the risk of traversing that open bit of trail, but it was such a few feet to

Behind my tree I tore a cartridge open, rammed in a palmful of buck-shot, primed, and fired, tearing the whole bow out of their flimsy bark craft. The canoe stood up like a post, stern in the air, and Wraxall lay floundering, while Tice shrieked and fell sprawling into the river, head first.

They were swimming my way now, but I shouted to them to sheer off, and at rifle point warned them across the river to land, where they might.

reloaded his rifle and was now squatting in the bow. They were Wraxall, the barber, and Toby Tice—jeanics of Sir William, with honest and families in Johnston.

Their murderous treachery horrified me.

Zachary Pitches Dodgers to Great Win Over Pirates

Veteran Mound Ace Beats Waite Hoyt in Thirteen-Inning Duel, 2-0—Yankees Blank Cleveland Indians Behind Vito Tamulis, 10-0—Detroit Defeats Senators, 7-2

PITTSBURGH, May 16 (AP).—Tom Zachary, the canny Brooklyn left-hander, got the better of Waite Hoyt in an over-time mound duel between a pair of veterans today and the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers emerged with a thirteen-inning 2-0 triumph over the Pirates. The two old-timers, both of whom once pitched for the Yankees, put on a great display of elbowing over the long route. The Pirates had a twelve-nine edge in the hitting, but after weathering trouble in the first inning, Zachary didn't allow the Buccos to put together two hits in one inning until the twelfth. His deceptive slants had the Pirates' pitchers, who slammed out twenty runs against the Phillies, lunging and growling without effect all afternoon.

Hoyt was even better until an error by Arky Vaughan started the Stengel clan off on its winning rally in the thirteenth. R. H. E. Brooklyn 2 9 0 Pittsburgh 0 12 2 Batteries—Zachary and Lopez; Hoyt and Paden.

AMERICAN LEAGUE
NEW YORK, May 16 (AP).—The Yankees came home from the West today to a chilly reception from both the weather and 5,000 fans. They were red-hot themselves, though, as the young lefty, Vito Tamulis, held the second-place Cleveland Indians helpless, while the rest of the Yankees batted them around, 10-0.

The victory provided a nice welcome for Manager Joe McCarthy, who returned to the Yankee bench after a siege of influenza which put him out of action May 1, just before the Yankees started their Western trip. Heavily bundled up in a woolen vest and a windbreaker, McCarthy resumed active direction of the club. Art Fletcher had been acting manager.

R. H. E. Cleveland 6 7 1 New York 10 15 0 Batteries—Hudlin, Lee, C. Brown and Pytko; Tamulis and Dickey.

Bridges Beats Senators
WASHINGTON, May 16 (AP).—Tommy Bridges pitched the Detroit Tigers into a tie with Washington for fifth place in the American League standing today, holding the Senators to six hits to win, 7-2. It was the Tigers' tenth victory in their last thirteen games.

Washington tossed the game away as early as the second inning, when three of the six Senators either gave Detroit a pair of runs. R. H. E. Detroit 7 8 0 Washington 2 6 6 Batteries—Bridges and Cochran; Hadley and Bolton.

INTERNATIONAL LEAGUE
BALTIMORE, May 16 (AP).—No baseball postponements. One game played in National League, two in American and three in International. No games scheduled in American Association.

COAST LEAGUE
OAKLAND, May 16 (AP).—Faced with the possibility of losing their first series of the season, the league-leading Oakland team went on a batting spree here today, to defeat the Mission Reds, 10-2, and clinch the series. Leroy Anton, Oak first baseman, led the attack with a home run, triple and three singles in five times at bat, to make it seven consecutive hits. He collected hits on each of his last two trips to the plate in the Wednesday night game. Stanley Keyes also had honors at batting, collecting two home runs over the left field fence and a double. Muller also homed for the Oaks. R. H. E. Mission 2 9 6 Oakland 10 14 2 Batteries—Nicholas and Outen; Douglas and Raimondi.

Indians Trounced
LOS ANGELES, May 16 (AP).—A vicious, hitting assault, which started out in the first inning and continued on through the eighth, gave Los Angeles the deciding game of its series with Seattle here today, 13-4. The Angels won the contest in the first inning, when singles by Marvin Coudas, Gene Lillard, Carl Dittmar and Roy Joiner were coupled with an error, a wild pitch and two walks to score five runs at the expense of Herman Fillette, the pitcher. R. H. E. Seattle 4 15 1 Los Angeles 13 19 1 Batteries—Fillette, Henderson, Shea and Bottarini; Joiner and Gobel.

Hollywood Wins
SACRAMENTO, May 16 (AP).—Hollywood defeated Sacramento 3-1, here today, to take the three-game series by the odd game. Paul Gregory lost the game in the eighth, when he issued two walks followed by an infield tilt and two out for the winning runs. R. H. E. Hollywood 3 8 2 Sacramento 1 10 1 Batteries—Hebert and Desautels; Gregory and Berres.

Cissell Hits Hard
SAN FRANCISCO, May 16 (AP).—Portland bludgeoned out a 14-9 victory over the San Francisco Seals today, in a free-hitting affair. Each put on five-run rallies in the second, and the visitors went into the lead in the next frame, never to be headed. Chalmers Cissell led the visitors' hitting attack with five straight singles. R. H. E. Portland 14 20 1 San Francisco 9 14 1 Batteries—Bryan, Carson and Doerr, Newark; R. Cole, Stutz, Malis, Sheehan and Woodall, Monzo.

Scottish Squad Holds Workout
NEW YORK, May 16 (CP).—All players of the Scottish Football Association's touring soccer team enjoyed their first American workout this morning at the Columbia University's south field ground, and what they showed in ball control, dazzling dribbling and deadly shooting thrilled a crowd of more than 1,000.

After the workout players and officials of the Scottish team went to the Cornell Club, where they were the guests of the sportsman-ship brotherhood at luncheon. Sir Gerald Campbell, British Consul-General, welcomed them to the country and wished them every success during their tour of the United States and Canada. Later the Scotmen moved on to Philadelphia to prepare for the opening game of their invasion against Philadelphia's German-Americans of the American Professional League this season.

SQUIRM CARD FOR SATURDAY IS COMPLETE

Kazanjan and Anderson Round Out Attractive Mat Programme

"Casey" Kazanjan, former Stanford University football star, and one of the younger crop of heavy weight pachyderms, was yesterday signed by Fred Richardson, local wrestling promoter, for the semi-windup slot of tomorrow evening's grappling programme at the Tili-cuff gymnasium. Kazanjan will be tossed in against Ole "Rubber Legs" Anderson, Minneapolis wrestler, in the five-minute-round match. The signing of Kazanjan and Anderson completes the heavy weight card. Count George Zaryoff, colorful Ukrainian matman, and "Casey" Colombo, good-looking grappler from Hollywood's motion picture colony, have been secured for the main bout over the eight ten-minute-round route.

Anderson made his Victoria debut last week and gained a draw with Harry Demetral, rugged Chicago wrestler, after a good exhibition of the grunt and groan pastime. In the former Stanford football star, Anderson will be meeting a boy who works much faster than his last week's opponent, and one who has been scoring a number of impressive victories in other Pacific Coast cities.

The card will be completed today with the signing of two local wrestlers for the four six-minute-round special event, which will open the card at 8:30 o'clock.

Little Cards Fine 71 in Old Country

ST. ANNE-ON-THE-SEA, ENGL., May 16 (AP).—Reaching the peak of his form again, W. Lawson Little, British and United States amateur golf champion, presented a vision of another Prestwick today by touring the Royal Lytham course, where the British amateur championship will be played next week, in a spectacular round of 71. Par for the short but tricky layout is 69.

Playing with the Scot, Jack McLean, the man everybody says Little will have to beat if he successfully defends his title, the husky American shot the day's best round, despite two penalty strokes. McLean, who experienced trouble with his driving, turned in a 73 in the cold wind which swept the course.

Purcell Is Welcomed

TORONTO, May 16 (CP).—Jack Purcell, of Quebec, world's champion badminton player, was tendered a civic reception when he returned from Los Angeles, where he won his title by defeating Jesse Willard, United States champion, in three straight sets. Mayor James Simpson greeted Purcell at the City Hall.

Blind Luck—Although totally blind, Thomas McGraw, of Indianapolis, found a pocketbook on the sidewalk in front of the Apollo Theatre, Indianapolis, within plain sight of everyone but himself. He reported his find to the newspaper officials, who arranged for him to keep it legally after the expiration of the waiting period prescribed by law.

Camera Depicts Action

Mizuhashi, flashy third sacker of the Tokio Giants, touring Japanese professional ball club, is snapped by the camera man just as he singled through short in Wednesday afternoon's exhibition baseball game with the Victoria Sons of Canada. The locals won the fixture, 4-0. Joe Daley, Auburn twirler, turned in one of the first of his brilliant performances here for a long time, and the local club played good ball behind his fine pitching.

Tokio Giants Nose Out Victoria, 6-5 In Good Ball Game

Locals Put Up Game Fight After Trailing 5-0—Haughland Hits Homer in Ninth With Barnes on First Base—500 Witness Fixture

RAILING the Tokio Giants, touring Japanese professional ball players, 5-0, at the end of the first half of the fourth inning, Victoria Sons of Canada ball club staged a game, uphill fight for the remainder of the fixture, and were noosed out 6-5, yesterday evening, at the Royal Athletic Park in the final game of the three-game series with the visitors.

The 500 fans who braved the drizzling rain to witness the game, left the enclosure in a happy mood after Haughland, Vancouver shortstop, crashed out a circuit drive in the ninth frame with Roy Barnes on the initial sack, to give the Giants a lead which they never relinquished.

Joe Daley, big right-hander, who twirled brilliant ball in the matinee attraction Wednesday afternoon to shut out the visitors, 4-0, paraded to the hilloak again last night. He worked for seven innings, and during that time was nicked for six safeties which, coupled with the odd error, were good enough for an even half-dozen runs.

Leo Holden, Victoria mound ace, finished the fixture for the locals, and was nicked for a lone hit during his short stay on the hilloak.

Stratton, eighteen-year-old Russian twirler, went the route for the visitors and, at times, was given shaky support. Victoria collected nine hits from his offerings, two more than his clubmates secured from the combined pitching of Daley and Holden.

GENE SARAZEN IS FAVORITE

Is Chosen to Regain U.S. Open Golf Crown Next Month at Oakmont

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP).—To the surprise of nobody, stocky Gene Sarazen, the "Double Eagle Kid," is a prime favorite in the future books to regain the United States open golf championship this June at Oakmont.

Sarazen is "six three, two and an even," according to the price posted today by Jack Doyle, veteran Broadway commissioner and a close follower of the golfing wars since Francis Ouimet licked Ted Ray and Harry Vardon at Brookline twenty-two years ago.

In other words, a dollar will get you six if you think Gene will whip the big international field on course that is quite generally regarded as the Frankensel of American links.

The defending champion, Olin Dutra, is bracketed with blond Craig Wood, nagging-up to Sarazen in the Augusta national invitation event this Spring, as second choice at 8 to 1 in Doyle's book. Henry Picard, who led the Winter's money winners, is quoted at 10 to 1 against, with Paul Runyan, the United States P.G.A. titleholder, 12 to 1, and Ky Lafoon, 15 to 1.

Ten other professionals are quoted as 20-to-1 shots in Doyle's book.

NEWMARKET, England, May 16 (CP).—Lord Derby's Fairhaven, stablemate of the Derby contender Bobsleigh, won the Payne Stakes over the Derby distance of a mile and a half at turf headquarters this afternoon.

Fairhaven finished a length and a half in front of Mrs. Corlette Glenner's Assignment, who had the same margin over Marshall Field's J. R. Smith. Only three others ran. The winner, a Derby eligible, started at 9 to 4. Assignment at 11 to 8, and J. R. Smith 100 to 8.

LAST OF OUTSIDERS IS ELIMINATED BY MRS. J. HUTCHINSON

Marcia Moss, Vancouver Golf Club, Fades From Title Picture by 3 and 2 Margin—Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Peggy Allen and Mrs. Philbrick Advance—Dramatic Finish Seen

WITH the elimination of Marcia Moss, Vancouver Golf Club, the last of the Mainlanders in the running by Mrs. J. Hutchinson, well-known local shot-maker, 3 and 2, yesterday at the Royal Colwood course, the British Columbia women's championship will come to Victoria this year after a prolonged stay across the gulf waters. Erratic putting and trouble with her woods proved the downfall of the visitor, who admitted defeat on the sixteenth green.

Mrs. Sayward-Wilson, Colwood, little aspirant, who has been playing good golf, accounted for one of the co-medalists, Miss Peggy Hodgson, 3 and 1, while Miss Peggy Allen, Gorge Vale Club, scored a run away victory over Mrs. V. S. Godfrey, 6 and 5. The most dramatic ending of the day came in the Dorothy Fletcher-Mrs. B. R. Philbrick match. After battling on even terms most of the way and reaching the last tee all square, Miss Fletcher had the misfortune to knock her opponent's ball into the cup on the eighteenth green and the match was all over. The young Uplands Club player was dead stymied and was lying twenty-five feet from the flag. Her putt was true all right, but it carried misfortune for Miss Fletcher as it rolled towards the cup.

CO-MEDALIST BEATEN
Playing steady in the early stages, Mrs. Sayward-Wilson gained a two-up lead on Miss Hodgson at the fourth. Miss Hodgson started to find trouble from the tees from the fifth on and reached the turn four down. She was hooking her tee shot but putting her irons straight and true. The tenth and eleventh were halved. Miss Hodgson had a chance to slice Mrs. Sayward-Wilson's lead at the twelfth, but three-putted and gained a half. Miss Hodgson stayed in the battle by winning the thirteenth and fifteenth, but lost the seventeenth and the match was all over.

MAINLANDER LOSES
Mrs. Hutchinson gained an early lead over Miss Marcia Moss and stayed out in front all the way. Miss Moss dropped the first by three-putting, halved the second and third, after using up four putts on the last mentioned hole. Mrs. Hutchinson was hitting her shots straight and accurate, and won the fourth and fifth, and then continued her fine play to go four up at the sixth. Miss Moss played a nice run-up approach shot at the seventh to get another half, but she went five down by "dropping the next hole. Mrs. Hutchinson lost the ninth and the pair headed for home with a four-up lead facing the Vancouver girl.

Encountering traps and plenty of trouble, Miss Moss lost the dog-leg tenth, but then she rallied desperately and captured the next three holes, to be only two down. This spurt prolonged defeat as the next two holes were halved and Mrs. Hutchinson took the sixteenth, which Miss Moss played very poorly.

SCORES EASY WIN
Smacking out long tee shots and playing her other clubs to the green with uncanny judgment, Peggy Allen chalked up the most decisive victory of the day in trimming Mrs. V. S. Godfrey, 6 and 5. Miss Allen started well and was two up at the short fourth. After halving the next three holes, the Gorge Vale

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES!
By ALEX MORRISON
Recently I gave some demonstrations which found me swinging a club and hitting balls for the first time this year. The effort to hold the club firmly in my left hand resulted in blisters and considerable soreness.
This is more or less bound to happen to any player who has not been able to play during the winter. Straining the new season with high hopes and soft hands means punishment somewhere along the line.
The glove not only will protect this hand, but will strengthen it in the swing. Any loose fitting glove will do.

ELEVEN TO RUN IN FAMOUS KING'S PLATE RACE

Listaro Is Favored To Capture Annual Turf Event in East

McLaughlin Stable Entry Is First Choice to Win Seventy-Sixth Running of Big Race at Toronto—Epicurus, Gay Sympathy and Sally Fuller Are Also Well Liked

By D. E. BURRITT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, May 16 (CP).—Powerful Parkwood Stables, owned by R. S. McLaughlin, reinforced its efforts to retain the historic King's Plate with the announcement tonight that three entries would be made for the seventy-sixth renewal of the Canadian turf classic Saturday afternoon.

Five candidates had been nominated from the McLaughlin Stables, and it had been generally accepted that Listaro, top favorite, and Epicurus, a three-year-old colt acquired from the stable of the late Charles Robson, would carry the blue and gold colors. The announcement by Trainer Harry Olden that the speedy little filly, Eileen D., would accompany her stablemates over the mile and a furlong route, came as a surprise.

ELEVEN TO START
On the eve of closing entries, it appeared that the field would be composed of eleven starters, with J. E. Smallman's good mudder, Right foot, definitely out, with prospects for a fast race.

Saturday's feature will lack the usual colorful ceremony accompanying the Governor-General's arrival. Lord Bessborough was forced by illness to cancel the traditional visit when the plate and fifty guineas are presented on behalf of the King. Listaro remained the top favorite, while Epicurus, Seagram's Gay Sympathy and Sally Fuller, W. H. Wright's Tax Free and Harry Hatch's Chickpen and Donistuck were ranked high in early choices.

HERE'S THE LIST
Probable starters:

Remember When

(Twenty-Five Years Ago)

In the North Ward-Ladysmith Second Division, soccer match on the latter's grounds, the second of the series in the Island championship, was won by Ladysmith by a score of 3 to 1.
North Ward protested, claiming that Ladysmith played an unregistered player, Morrison, of Ladysmith Knights of Pythias' team, and centre forward for the Nanaimo team. The charge will be laid before the governing association at the earliest possible moment. The opinion of Ed Christopher, North Ward's manager, is that the contention is not clearly valid, that there will be nothing to it but to turn Ladysmith down. In that event the cup comes to Ladysmith. In case of defeat, it is problematical whether the Ward will play a final at Nanaimo, Wellington or Extension, the only alternative.

Local followers of sport, and track athletes themselves, are of the opinion that too many athletic meets spoil the fun. There are two meets on May 24, and the competition in one is bound to be hurt. That one looks to be the St. Andrew's sports, which in the past have always been a great drawing card.

The Nanaimo celebration committee announced some months back that they would hold their big meet under the auspices of the Nanaimo Athletic Club, and with the sanction of the B.C.A.A.U. on the afternoon of May 24. The Scotch sports committee selected May 25, and the athletes got busy with their training for the two meets.

Now comes the rub. As May 25 is not a holiday, the Scotch Society has decided on May 24, while the track and field athletes have sent their entries to Nanaimo for the meet on May 24.

Walker connected twice in three times at bat to send his average thirteen points above the 400 mark. Vaughan got two hits in six trips to the plate in an overtime game with Brooklyn and dropped just to the 400 level, a loss of four points. The rest of the sextette had a day of scheduled inactivity.

Organization of the Saanich Softball League will be carried out at a meeting to be held this evening at the Tillamook School at 8 o'clock. Officers for the season will be elected and plans for the opening fixtures brought forward. Clubs wishing to compete in the league should file their entries at the meeting. All persons interested in softball are invited to attend.

CUP SOCCER
Garrison Wednesday Football League evening, present holders of the prime Reine & Taylor Cup, will make their second defence of this coveted trophy this evening at Heywood Avenue grounds when they battle Manager Dick Eaton's Hudson's Bay squad in the semi-final round. The kick-off is scheduled for 6:30 o'clock, with D. McMillan handling the whistle.

Hudson's Bay have the Hayward Cup safely tucked away for the season, and tonight they will be out at full strength in an effort to eliminate the Tommies from the present series. In their last fixture with the Garrison, a league match, the green and gold boys gained a 1-1 draw after an interesting game. With the winner advancing to the final, against Spencer's, tonight's semi-final fixture is expected to be bitterly contested. ## Performs Unique Feat at Meet

FRANK LISS—GEORGE TULL
PLAYING against each other, Frank Liss (top), of Syracuse, and George Tull, of Philadelphia, accomplished what is almost unique in bowling—each rolled a perfect 300 game. Old-timers could not recall when two men bowling against each other had accomplished such a feat.

OLD TIMERS ARE FADING
Veterans Gradually Passing From Active List in Big Leagues

CHICAGO, May 16 (AP).—The "Gay Ninety Boys" are passing out, but not quite as fast as they used to. By 1910, when only twenty-seven players were born somewhere in the gay nineties remained on the active lists today, as each club reduced its roster to twenty-three-man limit. And almost half of them, "old men" in their late thirties, were on the danger line, courageously trying to overcome ageing limbs and arms for a big comeback.

With the departure of forty-four-year-old Adolph Luque from an active player role to that of coach for the New York Giants, Walter "Rabbit" Maranville, forty-three-year-old Boston Brave veteran, became the granddaddy of

Security Prices Rise Sharply at New York Mart

NEW YORK, May 16 (AP).—The growing pressure of inflation sentiment blew the lid off the stock market today and prices boiled upward to the highest levels since last July.

The movement followed reports that President Roosevelt would veto the Patman soldiers' bonus, but the administration would not exert itself to keep the measure from being passed over the veto.

Leaders in practically all divisions, with the exception of the utility group, pushed ahead 1 to 3 points or so, with smaller gains general.

Turnover was 2,419,010 shares, better than any since July 26, 1924. Some brokers believed the market rise was due in part to generally improved business sentiment.

Metals, motors, chemicals, farm equipment, oil, steel, railroads and specialties all had one or several representatives in the group which advanced 1 to more than 3 points.

Some of the lifts of 2 to 3 or more points were Westinghouse at 49, Chrysler at 47-48, Columbia Carbon at 85-87, Foster Wheeler at 73, Johns-Manville at 51-53, McKeesport Tin Plate at 114-14, Monsanto at 75-76, U.S. Smelting at 115-12 and Union Carbide at 59.

Others getting ahead a point or more included U.S. Steel at 34-36, Allied Chemical at 151, American Smelting at 49-52, Montgomery Ward at 27-28, Bethlehem at 35-36, Santa Fe at 43-45, Union Pacific at 97-102, General Motors at 33-34, Amerasia at 69-74, and Anaconda at 17-18.

Nickel advanced 1 point, while the preferred shares were off as much. Other Canadian stocks were fractionally higher.

Led by the so-called secondary rails, the bond market enjoyed one of its best sessions of the year.

Among rails up 1 to around 4 points were Baltimore and Ohio 4-1/2's at 49-52 and Great Northern 4-1/2's at 78.

Industrial and utilities lagged. Polish obligations recovering a point or so.

VANCOUVER, May 16 (AP).—Dr. W. B. Burnett, president of the Cariboo Gold Quartz Mining Co., Ltd., today announced the mill at the mine is being enlarged by another fifty tons capacity per day.

A new hospital and twenty houses are also to be constructed on the company's property.

Dr. Burnett, who has just returned from the mine, said foundations for the addition to the mill have already been laid and the enlarged plant will be in operation by the end of July.

The company is financing the building of the houses, which will be either rented to the staff or sold to them at cost. Work on the hospital will be started as soon as possible. These projects will provide work for a large staff of carpenters for several months.

KRAZY KAT . . . . . By Herriman

THE TUTTS . . . By Crawford Young

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"TORTURE"

"There," writes Dryden, "thou mayst torture one poor word ten thousand ways."

This use of the word torture in the sense of twisting language from its proper meaning, "distorting" it, not deforming it, supplies the key to the intrinsic significance of the word.

We have torture from the Latin tortura, meaning twisting, wrenching.

Originally, torture was used in connection with the infliction of mental anguish, torment or agony, excruciating physical injury and self-inflicted or otherwise.

SHIPS STILL MANOEUVRING

Most Spectacular Exercises
Of Uncle Sam's Navy
Now Under Way

ABOARD BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIA IN HAWAIIAN WATERS, May 16 (AP).—All vessels of the United States Navy's "fleet" moved seaward from Pearl Harbor today, the "black fleet" bore south from its base near the Aleutians, and the most spectacular part of the sixteenth annual naval manoeuvres was under way.

These 153 ships, with their hundreds of fast planes and hordes of auxiliaries, will move and counter-move on a tactical chessboard of 5,000,000 square miles, seeking to checkmate each other and putting to practical test the training and abilities of thousands of officers and men.

The Hawaiian Islands—not only those garden spots known as the "Paradise of the Pacific" but the chain of rocks, atolls and outposts extending to Midway and almost to the international date line—will be the scene of these dramatic "games."

STEPPING STONES

These are the stepping stones of the Pacific, and along this 1,400-mile line of dots on the map the "white fleet" patrolled today after having cut short its visit to Pearl Harbor and Honolulu.

Along this chain, between the Twentieth and Thirtieth Parallels, has been concentrated the greatest expeditionary force of marines and naval aircraft that ever waded to coral beaches or flew over treacherous reefs.

Here in this strange, little frequented area, seamen and undersea strategists will play a military game with unusual phases that set it apart from all previous navy manoeuvres.

Musical Choir Will Present Interesting Programme May 21

Fourteen selections will be rendered by the musical choir of 600 voices, under Frank Tupman, at the Bay Street Armories, on the evening of May 24, as part of the Victoria Day celebration. George Green will give two concert solos.

Selections sung will be "Victoria Day," "Land of Hope and Glory," "Awake, Awake," "Song of the Vikings," "Then Round About the Starry Throne," "Cradle Song," "Night Hymn at Sea," "Glory of God in Nature," "Hey Robin, Jolly Robin," "Now the Night in Starlight Splendor," "Let Their Celestial Concerts," "The Morning," "The Fall of the Rain," and "Hallelujah."

OUTDOOR CARNIVAL TO INCLUDE ROLLER SKATING CONTESTS

As part of the street carnival here on May 25 there will be nine roller skating events, commencing with a boys' city championship hockey game at 6:45 o'clock in the evening. All boys and girls wishing to participate are asked to register at 786 Yates Street before May 22.

Other items include couples waiting race for boys of ten and under, novelty number, race for girls of ten and under, single specialty number, race for boys of fifteen and under, race for girls of eighteen and under, and a two-step demonstration on skates.

"Did Mesa Bill get into society when he went to Chicago?"

"Sure," answered Cactus Joe. "He has received bills to prove that he hired a dress suit for three different occasions."

SAYS TRADE IS SHOWING GAINS

Auckland Trade Official Tells Of Spurt in Canadian Business

Canada's business with New Zealand is advancing steadily, with a decided movement latterly in automobiles, newspaper and along other Canadian lines. L. H. E. Priestman, assistant Canadian Trade Commissioner at Auckland, stated on arrival here as a passenger on the Inboard R.M.S. Niagara last evening. Accompanied by his family, Mr. Priestman is en route to Ottawa on furlough.

Referring to the Canadian - New Zealand trade agreement, Mr. Priestman said the operation of the pact was working to the mutual advantage of both countries. He praised the initiative shown by Canadian businessmen in stepping out to look for business across the Pacific, instancing the recent visit to New Zealand of Herbert J. Pendray, a stage of both countries. ## What Today Means

"TAURUS"
If May 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 to 11:45 a.m., from 1:45 to 3:45 p.m., and from 6:45 to 8:45 p.m.

The danger periods are from 7:45 to 9:45 a.m., from 3:45 to 5:45 p.m., and from 8:45 to 10:45 p.m. Any manifestation of a contradictory or stubborn spirit on this day may prove a serious error of judgment. Any rude interruption or abrupt contradiction is likely to stir up a stormy protest, with devastating effects. Business and professional men on this date will do well to be prepared to make allowances for temperamental customers and clients. If handled tactfully, people inclined to be cranky can be satisfied. Guests at any form of entertainment will do well to watch their p's and q's, for hosts may be inclined to be not only super-sensitive, but critical as well. It might be well to remember today the old saying, "not to look a gift horse in the mouth." If you are given something for nothing, even if it is of little use. Married and engaged couples, as well as those in Cupid's toils, will find it much better to offer no excuse at all, in case they are feeling in need of making one, than to advance a poor one.

If a woman and May 17 is your birthday, the happiness, as well as good cheer which is your due, in all that will be needed to dispense any speck of gloom that might threaten the harmony of the day. You seem predestined to accomplish many worthwhile things. If you are wise, you will not dwell on any unhappy episode of the past, but will await, with an optimistic mind, some of the good things the future has in store. Banish from your thoughts sentiments tinged with the verities of resentment or hatred. If you wish to be the recipient of a great deal of good. Journalism, teaching, commercial art or advertising, radio broadcasting, as well as office work, may provide the right place for your capability to be demonstrated. In matters concerning love you should have no cause to complain.

The child born on May 17, when it passes from childhood into youth, probably will have no difficulty in forging rapidly ahead along the road which leads to the high pinacles of good fortune. If a man and May 17 is your natal day, your ability will receive recognition if you persevere. Let nothing cause you to lose confidence in yourself. If you let hope sustain you, obstacles will disappear and the laurels of victory will be yours. Insurance, real estate, stocks, bonds, banking, writing, the lecture platform or pulpit are among occupations that may enable you to see your dreams come true.

STRIKE STOPS SHIPS SAILING

Passengers and Gold Cargo
Of Champlain Forwarded
To President Harding

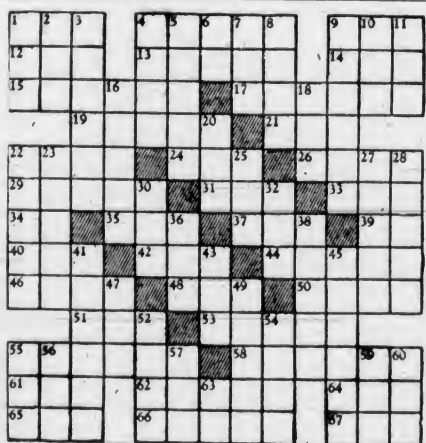

LE HAVRE, France, May 16 (AP).—The strike of the crew of the French liner Champlain forced officials of the line today to postpone the vessel's sailing indefinitely. Meanwhile, anxiety grew over the possibility that the walkout might delay the maiden voyage of France's new super-liner, the Normandie.

The Champlain's $6,000,000 gold cargo and most of her 298 passengers, who were forced to spend last night in this port, were transferred to the President Harding, sailing this afternoon.

The strike was called to enforce a demand for payment of yearly salaries for seamen instead of pay for each trip. It affected 1,200 members of the crew of the Normandie, 500 of the Champlain and 400 of the Lafayette.

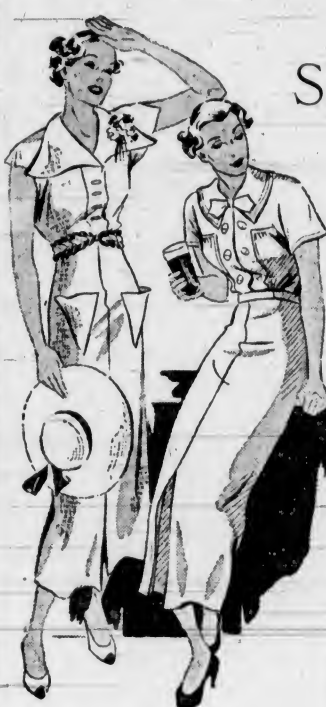

A recent earthquake shock in Wales jerked a man out of bed. It is locally reported that he was heard to murmur: "All right, dear, I am getting up."
